Joseph McConnel of the town of Hanson was a business visitor in the city on Tuesday.

Miss Mae Neibaur leaves the latter part of the week for Appleton where she will be employed.

Fred Ruesch of Alford was in the city on Tuesday on business. He reports crops all pretty good out his way notwithstanding the dry weather that has prevailed for some time past.

Miss Faye Warner has gone to Milwaukee where she will attend the Normal school during the ensuing year.

Miss Selma Peterson of Ironwood, Michigan, arrived in the city on Saturday for a visit of several weeks with her parents in the town of Seneca.

Mrs. Henry Binneboese left on Monday for Minneapolis where she will spend a couple of weeks visiting at the home of Mrs. Ackerman.

There was no general observance of labor day in this city only the banks, postoffice and county offices being closed during the day. In some places the organized labor unions hold a picnic on that day and get out and have a good time, but this does not seem to appeal to the working men and their families here.

E. A. Hannon of Waupaca is spending several days in the city with his family who are visiting at the Chas. Kellogg home.

Miss Lena Kleven, who had been visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Riek for a week past left for her home in Chicago on Monday.

Misses Elizabeth and Florence Calkins of Stevens Point were guests at the home of their brother, Atty. F. W. Calkins several days the past week. The meeting of the Grand Rapids Federated clubs which was to have been held on September 6th has been postponed for one week, or until Friday, September 12th.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Karnatz of Milwaukee arrived in the city on Monday for a visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. Calkins several days the past week. They will also visit with relatives in Rudolph before returning.

Mrs. August Boner of Milwaukee is visiting with relatives and friends in the city for several weeks. Mr. Boner was here to spend Sunday with his family returning again on Monday morning.

The streets on the east side are now in a state of decided disrepair, owing to the getting ready to pave with brick. However, it is hoped by all that the improvement will be worth the inconvenience that we are experiencing at the present time.

Monday and Tuesday, September first and second, were two of the warmest days we have experienced this year, mercury hovering around the ninety mark nearly all day both days. It seemed warmer because everybody expects the heat to let up a little at this time of the year.

Mrs. W. Brace, Mrs. Theo Engstrom, Miss Mayme Kennedy and Miss Mary Kruger of Rib Lake spent several days in the city the past week visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Kruger. Mrs. Brace and Miss Kruger left here on Monday for Milwaukee, where Miss Kruger went to purchase her fall millinery stock.

S. N. Whittlesey of Cranmoor was in the city on Tuesday looking after some business matters. Mr. Whittlesey states that he will commence harvesting his cranberries next Tuesday. He says that the crop is better than last year, although most of the growers have reported a little less than last season. Picking has already commenced on the Harry Whittlesey marsh and the crop is turning out fairly good.

SUNDAY, DEC. 7 WILL BE TUBERCULOSIS DAY HERE

Churches, Schools, Fraternal Orders and Others Will Assist This Year in Making the Day a Complete Success.

Wisconsin will observe Tuberculosis Sunday this year on the date set aside for the whole nation. The announcement was made from the office of the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis Association today. Formerly it was held earlier and the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis Association set a separate date in order to hold it in connection with the Christmas Seal Campaign, but this year the national date has been set to conform with Wisconsin's plan.

Churches, schools, labor unions, fraternal orders and other organizations to the number of 200,000 at least will be asked to join the anti-tuberculosis workers of the country in the observance of the Fourth National Tuberculosis Day, which has been designated for December 7th, according to an announcement issued today by the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis.

The movement will be furthered throughout the country by more than 1,000 anti-tuberculosis societies working through various state organizations and The National Association. Personal appeals will be made to clergymen, school principals and leaders of various organizations urging them to set aside a definite time during the week preceding or the week following December 7, for a lecture on tuberculosis.

Last year over 60,000 churches gave attention to this subject on Tuberculosis Sunday. It is hoped this year to swell the number of churches to 100,000 and to urge similar action besides in a large number of the schools and other societies. The Tuberculosis Day Campaign will come this year during the first Cross Christmas Seal sale. It is planned to urge the churches of the county to take a definite part in this movement.

The observance of Tuberculosis Day was endorsed last year by President Taft, Cardinal Farley, Col. Roosevelt and many other prominent churchmen and public officials. Proclamations calling upon the people to observe this day were issued by governors of more than a dozen states and by the mayors of a considerable number of cities.

Matters at the State Fair. The completed entry lists for the horses and cattle departments Wisconsin State fair, Milwaukee, September 8 to 12 show that new standards will be set this year for both number and quality of exhibits. In the cattle department there are more than 50 exhibitors of native and imported breeds. In the horse department there are more than 100 exhibitors. Their entries will reach the 100 mark.

Notable features in the horse department will be the unusually large number of Percherons, heavy harness and show horses. A departure is a special classification this year for Belgians. A special feature will be the exhibition of the famous six-hand team of Sheldahl ponies owned by Geo. A. Hoyt, Washington, Illinois. Every one of these little horses which are exhibited hitched to a miniature express wagon is a champion.

The Holsteins, Presians, Guernseys, Jersey and Short-Horn breeds will lead in numbers in the cattle department, although there is a marked increase in the Herefords, Angshires, Brown Swans and Dutch Friesians. A special classification was provided for Dutch Friesians this year, and the response by owners of cattle of this breed is very satisfactory.

The horse show with programs every night in the stock pavilion will be one of the most important attractions at the fair. The entries include the finest show animals in the west. Among them are saddle horses of the various gait, tandem teams, four-in-hand and runaway teams. Also there is a special class for competition in equestrianism.

MEEHAN.

Lon Smart of Stevens Point was calling on friends here last week. Lon was a resident here for many years, but moved to the city some time ago.

Ruth Mattison of Stevens Point has been spending a few days here with friends and relatives.

Wm. Carley, Plover's old reliable potato buyer, commenced buying potatoes here Monday. Charles Clessman will look after business at this station.

Burr and Late Fox went down to Plainfield last week to visit with relatives and attend the harvest celebration.

Andrew Lutz is having his home veneered with brick. Lutz Brothers are doing the work.

Evelyn, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Dakins, has been quite sick with measles, but has recovered. Sidney Parks of Stevens Point, who has been out in Iowa the past year, was calling on friends here Saturday.

Mrs. Mabel Parsons and several of her friends went down to Groen Bay Sunday, returning the same day.

Miss Martha Smaglick has been seriously ill with typhoid fever. She is still very sick at this writing, but her recovery is looked for soon.

Henry Blood made a two days drive down in the depths of Adams county last week.

The Sunday school picnic at the church grounds Saturday was a pleasant gathering. The attendance was not as large as expected but those present were the jolly, friendly kind whose presence inspires our lives with enthusiasm for social gatherings.

A church basket social was enjoyed by a large crowd of young people at the Clessman home Monday night. The proceeds were $11.85.

Kallman-Carter.

Mr. and Mrs. Claus Kallman were surprised the first of the week to receive word from their daughter, Ellen, to the effect that she had been married on Friday, August 29th, to Dr. Ralph Carter of Green Bay. The bride is well known in this city, having made her home here all her life until lately and is a most estimable young lady with a large circle of friends who will unite in wishing her a long and happy wedded life. Mr. and Mrs. Carter are expected here on Sunday to visit at the Kallman home. They will make their home in Green Bay.

HAPPY IS SOME HITTER.

Felsh Showing the Big Ones Something About Hitting a Ball.

Kansas City, Mo., Aug. 30.—Did you ever see a ball batted so high and so far that it was lost from sight, and where even the batter's teammates were divided in their opinions as to where the ball really did land? Well, that is what happened yesterday when "Happy" Felsh landed on his third straight extra base knock in as many times at bat.

Yesterday was the first full game that Felsh has played as a Brewer, but the ex-Schmitt certainly made a name for himself. Felsh joined the Brewers at Toledo, Aug. 9, and after playing the right field for six innings when the rain broke up the part after he had been at bat three times without a hit, he was replaced the next day by Woodruff and since that time has only subbed in a couple of games, while five times he was sent up, as a pinch hitter, which meant that he had been in the league almost three weeks without a hit to his credit.

Yesterday the injury to Woodruff brought him in as a regular and if he can keep up yesterday's feat it is a clinch that he will remain as such, for not only did he feature in his hitting, but he also starred in fielding and made one throw from deep right to the plate for a double play, which was a perfect peg.

His first time he drove a double to the left field fence. On his second trip he drove another double off to the score board in right field, while his third attempt was a home run over two fences in left center, a hit that has never been duplicated but once in the history of the grounds and then, it is claimed, that the plate was fully fifteen feet further out.

Hit for Extra Bases.

When the ball left the bat it traveled out of sight in its upward flight and then started for the left field fence. Those who claim they know say that the ball cleared the fence by ten feet. The same drive in Milwaukee would have cleared the building in left field in distance while in height it would have cleared the centerfield bleachers. His next was a grounder to third, while his fifth was a high one, which was dropped by the fielder, allowing a run to score.

Will Open Wholesale House.

Several of our young business men have associated themselves together for the purpose of opening a wholesale paper house. They intend to handle wrapping papers, tissues and similar stock and will probably capitalize at about $5,000 for a starter, although their plans are not complete as yet. It would seem as if a proposition of this sort would be a good one as Grand Rapids is centrally located and right near the source of supply for several of the commodities they will handle.

BROWN-ZILLMER.

Miss Lillian Brown of this city and Hugo Zillmer of Watertown were united in marriage at the east side Lutheran church on Thursday evening, Rev. Pantz performing the ceremony. They were attended by Miss Anna Wendland of Port Edwards, Eleanor Hannaman and Andrew Eugene of this city.

After the ceremony the bridal party and their invited guests repaired to the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Brown, where a wedding supper was served.

The bride is a Grand Rapids girl and is a young lady well and favorably known here. The groom is a resident of Watertown, where he holds the position of pressman in the Watertown Times, and is a young man of exemplary habits and well liked by all who know him. Mr. and Mrs. Zillmer have many friends here who will extend congratulations and wish them success and happiness on their journey thru life.

Baseball Standings.

Following is the standing of the clubs in the local league at the present time:

	W.	L.	Pc.
Stevens Point	5	0	100
Grand Rapids	3	3	400
Marshfield	2	3	400
Nekoosa	1	4	200

The game on Labor Day between Nekoosa and Grand Rapids was won by Grand Rapids by a score of 8 to 3, but this game does not count in the standing of the teams, being out of the regular schedule. The game between Stevens Point and Marshfield on Labor Day counted in the standing of the teams, being the game that had to be postponed on account of the rain.

Police Want Him.

The police are looking for a young fellow by the name of John Murphy, who has been working at Port Edwards for some time past. Murphy is charged with stealing a suit of clothes and other property from a fellow workman.

Murphy is about 18 or 20 years of age, 5 foot, 2 or 3 inches tall, has black hair and when last seen wore tan shoes and a white cap. The man who lost the clothes is John Zanco.

Road Laborers Strike.

The men employed on the street paving work on the east side went on a strike on Tuesday. They were receiving $2.25 for nine hours work and asked that their hours be reduced to eight without any reduction in wages, which demand their employers refused to grant.

FOR SALE AT A BARGAIN.

Two residence lots fronting on the Wisconsin river, part of the old Lyon homestead. These lots are two of the finest in the city and lay between the Clark Lyon home and the Roger Mott property. Inquire of G. M. Hill.

Legal blanks for sale at this office.

Miss Bess Richmond has come to Milwaukee where she will attend Normal School during the ensuing year.

Mr. and Mrs. John Finn of Vesper were in the city this morning on business and while here favored the Tribune with a pleasant call.

GAVE A GOOD FAIR.

Marshfield Exhibit Said to Be the Best for Years.

About two hundred people went up to Marshfield from this city by train on Thursday to attend the fair, and a number went up in autos, so that the city was well represented there. There was a largeness there on that day, one of the best ever seen in that city.

Those who attended from here say that the fair was the best that has ever been held in that city, and everybody seemed pleased with it. There were good races and the free attractions were good, while the evening's entertainment was said to be fine, making a very satisfactory day for the visitors.

PAYING THE ROAD TAX.

There are two ways of paying taxes. Maybe you never thought of but one. But here are two concrete examples to illustrate the point.

Two farmers had access to the market reports by phone, and both learned that the price of cotton was advanced a dollar a bale on a certain morning. One lived in a country where roads were good, the other where they were bad. Both used the same market.

One farmer hauled but one bale because he couldn't get the rough with a larger load. His gain for the day's trip was $1.00. The other farmer hauled four bales at a load because the roads were good. He made a $4.00 gain, and did it quicker than the other man made his $1.00. In other words, one man paid a $3.00 tax that day on roads, had roads at that, and would continue to pay such tax until his county got good roads.

A farmer in Sullivan county, Tenn., had one hundred bushels of potatoes rot in his cellar because he couldn't haul them to his market place on account of bad roads. Potatoes went to $1.40 a bushel, and the town was shipping them in to feed that locality. Not only potatoes were shipped in, but ten loads of all kinds of food products. The farmers lost that market by not being able to reach it. They paid a big tax for their bad roads.

So it goes. Wherever roads are bad at any season of the year the farmers pay a big road tax by their losses. Yet they complain not, nor do they weep. But let anyone's advocate paved roads so they can reach market any day in the year and they complain of the tax. They blame the one who would in the end save them money.

What's the difference between you lose $10.00 on a market loss because of bad roads or pay $10.00 towards a road tax that gives you a permanent market? The difference is many fold the $10.00. One is a perpetual tax—and poor business.

CLOSING A ROAD AGAINST PUBLIC TRAVEL BY THE COUNTY HIGHWAY COMMISSIONER.

While it is always against my wish to close a road and when it is possible to repair or construct a road without closing the highway I always do so. But in very many cases it is impossible to do good work without closing the road and in such cases the road must be closed.

It might be of general interest to the traveling public to know where I get my authority. To those interested I wish to call attention to Sec. 1312 M-G, Sub-sec. 3, which reads as follows:

"The county highway commissioner shall have power, in his discretion, to suspend the right to travel on any highway in process of construction or repair, by posting notices forbidding such travel at each end of said highway, and any one violating his order in that regard shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and be punished by a fine not exceeding one hundred dollars, and in addition thereto shall be liable for all damages done to such highway by such travel, and damages to be paid for and recovered by the county."

L. Arundson, County Highway Commissioner.

Stevens Point Beats Nekoosa.

The Stevens Point and Nekoosa baseball teams played a game at Nekoosa on Sunday, result, 12 to 4 in favor of the Point.

Nekoosa has been playing pretty baseball so far this season, and while they are not at the top of the heap or anything of that sort, they have been giving a good enough account of themselves so that their opponents know they were in the game, but on Sunday they went to the limit. Those who saw the game said it was the lowest one they have played this season, notwithstanding the fact that they had a good battery and expected to put up the best game of the season.

However, Stevens Point was playing in their usual form and with the loose playing that Nekoosa did not have trouble in beating the paper makers.

Grand Over to Circuit Court.

John Wood of the town of Saratoga was up before Justice Brown on Tuesday on a charge of having robbed the house of Emory Lee, a neighbor of Wood's. Wood waived examination and will probably be taken before Judge Park in the near future.

The claim was made by Lee that Wood had broken into his house and stolen a small savings bank which contained a Columbian 20 cent piece and a foreign coin. Wood admitted the theft and when arrested dug up the bank which he had buried in the ground. He stated as an excuse for his crime that Lee had stolen from him and he was just doing it to get even. Wood is a young man about 23 years of age.

Noted Speaker Coming.

Kate Richards of Hatt will be in this city on September 25th to deliver a lecture in the Baptist church. Mrs. O'Hare is editor of the National Girl Scout of St. Louis, Mo., and International Secretary of the Socialist party of America. Mrs. O'Hare is well known in the country and is said to be a forceful talker. She has a number of subjects that she talks on, among which are "Girl Workers of a Great City," "The Law and the White Slave," "Church and Social Problem," "Common Sense and the Liquor Question," and "What is Socialism?" It is not known what subject will be taken up here.

WOODMEN'S VOTE ON RATES.

Only Small Percentage of Members Express a Choice.

For some months the members of the Modern Woodmen of America have been agitated over the problem of increasing the old premium rates sufficiently to meet the rapidly increasing demand for funds to pay death benefits as the membership grows older and the death rate accordingly grows larger. The subject was recently placed before the entire membership for an advisory vote. Of the 994,000 members, however, only 48,732 expressed a choice. The vote was so small that it will not be binding upon the society but it indicates to some extent the general trend of thought. The vote stood as follows:

For the old plan as is in operation at present, 25,085; for an increase, 10,733; for the Chicago plan rates, an increase, 5,612; for adequate rates based on Woodmen's past experience, 3,597; for national fraternal congress rates, 397; for a step rate plan of increase, 293. It will be seen from the above that while 25,085 of the members voted favorably continuing under the old plan, 21,333 favored an increase of some kind.

The Woodmen officials who had charge of the voting proposition were very much surprised at the lack of interest indicated by the small vote.

Prominent members of the local Woodmen lodge assert that it is not a question of whether the members favor or oppose the increase, it is simply a problem of finance and plain mathematics. They insist that the rates absolutely must be increased or the society will be forced in a very short time to share its policy settlements or go out of business entirely.

Death of Miss Pratt.

Miss Cora Pratt died quite suddenly at her home early Monday morning, death being caused by a hemorrhage of the brain. Miss Pratt had been sick for some time past, although she was able to be around a part of the time, and had been up and about on Sunday, and the announcement of her death on Monday morning came as a great surprise to her friends in this city.

Miss Pratt was the oldest daughter of M. S. Pratt, and was born and reared in Grand Rapids, her birth occurring on the 27th of June, 1868, and was consequently in her 45th year. Miss Pratt taught school for some time but for a number of years past had made her home with her father. Besides her father she is survived by two sisters, Mrs. E. W. Clemens of Port Huron, Michigan, and Mrs. Warren F. Sanderson of Sank Centre, Minn.

The funeral will be held on Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the home at the corner of 5th and Oak streets, the services to be conducted by the Rev. A. C. Fincher.

Duck Season Will Open Sept. 7.

The report came out from Washington recently, and which has appeared in the press all over the middle west, that a new federal law prohibits the shooting of wild ducks and wild geese because they are migratory birds, and are protected. The state game warden has been appealed to for a ruling on the matter and says that the federal law would prohibit the shooting of wild ducks and geese except from Sept. 7 to Dec. 15. The open season on the Mississippi river, however, is only from Nov. 1 to Dec. 15.

Dr. Lyons Acquitted.

Wausau, Wis.—In Justice Larson's court Monday Russell Lyons was acquitted of the charge of violating the game laws of the state. He was charged with entering a field in which game birds abound with a dog and gun. The case was tried before a jury and a verdict of not guilty was returned. Mr. Lyons is of the opinion his arrest was a frame-up and he is having the matter investigated. If his suspicions are verified it is probable arrests for perjury will be made.

NEW STYLES IN PIANOS.

A lot of the 15th of September, rms E. C. Daily will receive another carload of pianos from the Cable company and will sell at the lowest prices and on the most liberal kind of an installment plan and those who contemplate buying anything of the sort should make it a point to look them over. Mrs. Daily handles more pianos than anyone dealer in this locality and is consequently up-to-date at all times. If you want you a new one look over what she has to offer, whether you want to buy or not.

Titus. Mr. Titus, Sr., was badly beaten up and had several teeth knocked out in the mixup. The Titus family lived here several years ago, and were engaged in the painting and paper hanging business.

W. O. W. Have Big Time.

The members of the Woodmen of the World lodge held their annual picnic and gave a chowder on the river Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock on the pumping station. There were over 200 in attendance and over one hundred pounds of chicken were cooked up. One hundred chickens as chief cook and the boys all claim the chowder was excellent. A big time was had by all present.

Coming up from Kansas City the Brewers and Blues had a great time denouncing each other's straw hats. Every straw lid in the two sleepers was busted and a majority of the players were wearing baseball caps when they reached Milwaukee Sunday morning. Bill Powell had a $20 Panama, but it went with the rest. Pat O'Connor also had a Panama, but instead of letting the miscreants but it up he chucked it out of the train window. Skip also had the pleasure of breaking up his own hat. The athletes are a merry throng.

There was no general observance of labor day in this city only the banks, postoffice and county offices being closed during the day. In some places the organized labor unions hold a picnic on that day and get out and have a good time, but this does not seem to appeal to the working men and their families here.

E. A. Hannon of Waupaca is spending several days in the city with his family who are visiting at the Chas. Kellogg home.

Miss Lena Klevens, who had been visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Rick for a week past left for her home in Chicago on Monday.

SUNDAY, DEC. 7 WILL BE TUBERCULOSIS DAY HERE

Churches, Schools, Fraternal Orders and Others Will Assist in Making the Day a Complete Success.

Wisconsin will observe Tuberculosis Sunday this year on the date set aside for the whole nation. The announcement was made from the office of the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis Association today. Formerly it was held earlier and the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis Association set a separate date in order to hold it in connection with the Christmas Seal Campaign, but this year the national date has been set to conform with Wisconsin's plan.

Churches, schools, labor unions, fraternal orders and other organizations to the number of 200,000 at least will be asked to join the anti-tuberculosis workers of the country in the observance of the Fourth National Tuberculosis Day, which has been designated for December 7th, according to an announcement issued today by the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis.

The movement will be furthered throughout the country by more than 1,000 anti-tuberculosis societies working through various state organizations and the National Association. Personal appeals will be made to clergymen, school principals and leaders of various organizations urging them to set aside a definite time during the week preceding or the week following December 7, for a lecture on tuberculosis.

Last year over 60,000 churches gave attention to this subject on Tuberculosis Day. It is hoped this year to swell the number of churches to 100,000, and to urge similar action besides in a large number of the schools and other societies. The Tuberculosis Day Campaign will come this year during the Red Cross Christmas Seal sale. It is planned to urge the churches of the county to take a definite part in this movement.

The observance of Tuberculosis Day was endorsed last year by President Taft, Cardinal Farley, Col. Roosevelt and many other prominent churchmen and public officials. Proclamations calling upon the people to observe this day were issued by governors of more than a dozen states and by the mayors of a considerable number of cities.

Matters at the State Fair. The completed entry lists for the horses and cattle departments Wisconsin State Fair, Milwaukee, September 8-12 show that new standards will be set this year for both number and quality of exhibits. In the cattle department there are more than 50 exhibitors of nation-wide reputation, and their entries will aggregate nearly 1,000, several bringing from 75 to 100 head. In the horse department there are nearly 100 exhibitors. Their entries will reach the 100 mark.

Notable features in the horse department will be the unusually large number of Percherons, heavy harness and show horses. A departure is in special classification this year for Belgians. A special feature will be the exhibition of the famous six-in-hand team of Shetland ponies owned by Gen. A. Hoyt, Washington, Illinois. Every one of these little horses which are exhibited hitched to a miniature express wagon is a champion.

The Holstein-Friesian, Guernsey, Jersey, and Short-Horn breeds will lead in numbers in the cattle department, although there is a marked increase in the Herefords, Ayrshires, Brown Swiss and Dutch Beltes. A special classification was provided for Dutch Beltes this year, and the response by owners of cattle of this breed is very satisfactory.

The horse show with programs every night in the stock pavilion will be one of the most important attractions at the fair. The entries include the finest show animals in the west. Among them are saddle horses of the various galls, tandem teams, four-in-hand and runabout horses. Also there is a special class for competition in equestrianism.

MEEHAN. Lon Smart of Stevens Point was calling on friends here last week. Lon was a resident here for many years, but moved to the city some time ago.

Ruth Mattison of Stevens Point has been spending a few days here with friends and relatives.

Wm. Carley, Plover's old reliable potato buyer, commenced buying potatoes here Monday. Charles Clausman will look after business at this station.

Burr and Late Fox went down to Plainfield last week to visit with relatives and attend the harvest celebration.

Andrew Lutz is having his home veneered with brick. Lili Brothers are doing the work.

Evelyn, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Dakins, has been quite sick with measles, but has recovered.

Sidney Parks of Stevens Point, who has been out in Iowa the past year, was calling on friends here Saturday.

Mrs. Mahel Parsons and several of her friends went down to Green Bay Sunday, returning the same day.

Miss Martha Smagliek has been seriously ill with typhoid fever. She is still very sick at this writing, but her recovery is looked for soon.

Henry Blood made a two days drive down in the depths of Adams county last week.

The Sunday school picnic at the church grounds Saturday was a pleasant gathering. The attendance was not as large as expected but those present were the jolly, friendly kind whose presence inspires our lives with enthusiasm for social gatherings.

A church basket social was enjoyed by a large crowd of young people at the Clusman home Monday night. The proceeds were $11.85.

Kallman-Carter. Mr. and Mrs. Claus Kallman were surprised the forepart of the week to receive word from their daughter, Ellen, to the effect that she had been married on Friday, August 29th, to Dr. Ralph Carter of Green Bay. The bride is well known in this city, having made her home here all her life until lately and is a most estimable young lady with a large circle of friends who will unite in wishing her a long and happy wedded life. Mr. and Mrs. Carter are expected here on Sunday to visit at the Kallman home. They will make their home in Green Bay.

HAPPY IS SOME HITTER.

Felch Showing the Big Ones Something About Hitting a Ball.

Kansas City, Mo., Aug. 30.—Did you ever see a ball batted so high and so far that it was lost from sight, and where even the batter's teammates were divided in their opinions as to where the ball really did land? Well, that is what happened yesterday when "Happy" Felch landed on his third straight extra base knock in as many times at bat.

Yesterday was the first full game that Felch has played as a Brewer, but the ex-Schnitt certainly made a name for himself. Felch joined the Brewers at Toledo, Aug. 9, and after playing the right field for six innings when the rain broke up the part after he had been at bat three times without a hit. He was replaced the next day by Woodruff and since that time has only subbed in a couple of games, while five times he was sent out as a pinch hitter, which meant that he had been in the league almost three weeks without a hit to his credit.

Yesterday the injury to Woodruff brought him in as a regular and if he can keep up yesterday's gall it's a cinch that he will remain as such, for not only did he feature in his hitting, but he also starred in fielding and made one throw from deep right to the plate for a double play, which was a perfect peg.

His first time he drove a double to the left field fence. On his second trip he drove another double off to the score board in right field, while his third attempt was a home run over two fences in left center, a hit that has never been duplicated but once in the history of the grounds and then, it is claimed, that the plate was fully fifteen feet further out.

Hit for Extra Bases. When the ball left the bat it traveled out of sight in its upward flight and then started for the left field fence. Those who claim they know, say that the ball cleared the fence by ten feet. The same drive in Milwaukee would have cleared the building in left field in distance while in height it would have cleared the centerfield bleachers. His next was a grounder to third, which was a high one, which was dropped by the fielder, allowing a run to score.

Will Open Wholesale House. Several of our young business men have associated themselves together for the purpose of opening a wholesale paper house. They intend to handle wrapping papers, tissues and similar articles and will probably capitalize at about $5,000 for a starter, although their plans are not complete as yet. It would seem as if a proposition of this sort would be a good one as Grand Rapids is centrally located and right near the source of supply for several of the commodities they will handle.

BROWN-ZILLMER.

Miss Lillian Brown of this city and Hugo Zillmer of Watertown were united in marriage at the east side Lutheran church on Thursday evening, Rev. Paul performing the ceremony. They were attended by Miss Anna Wendland of Port Edwards, Eleanor Hannaman and Eugene Zillmer of Watertown and Andrew Brown of this city.

After the ceremony the bridal party and their invited guests repaired to the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Brown, where a wedding supper was served. The bride is a Grand Rapids girl and is a young lady well and favorably known here. The groom is a resident of Watertown, where he holds the position of pressman in the Watertown Times, and is a young man of exemplary habits and well liked by all who know him. Mr. and Mrs. Zillmer have many friends here who will extend their congratulations and wish them success and happiness on their journey thru life.

Baseball Standings.

Following is the standing of the clubs in the local league at the present time:

	W.	L.	P.
Stevens Point	5	0	1000
Grand Rapids	2	3	400
Marshfield	2	3	400
Nekoosa	1	4	200

The game on Labor Day between Nekoosa and Grand Rapids was won by Grand Rapids by a score of 8 to 3, but this game does not count in the standing of the teams, being out of the regular schedule. The game between Stevens Point and Marshfield on Labor Day counted in the standing of the teams, being the game that had to be postponed on account of the rain.

Police Want Him.

The police are looking for a young fellow by the name of John Murphy, who has been working at Port Edwards for some time past. Murphy is charged with stealing a suit of clothes and other property from a fellow workman.

Murphy is about 18 or 20 years of age, 5 feet 2 or 3 inches tall, has black hair and when last seen wore tan shoes and a white cap. The man who lost the clothes is John Zanco.

Road Laborers Strike.

The men employed on the street paving work on the east side went on a strike on Tuesday. They were receiving $2.25 for nine hours work and asked that their hours be reduced to eight without any reduction in wages, which demand their employers refused to grant.

GAVE A GOOD FAIR.

Marshfield Exhibit Said to Be the Best For Years.

About two hundred people went up to Marshfield from this city by train on Thursday to attend the fair, and a number went up in autos, so that the city was well represented there. There was a large crowd there on that day, one of the best ever seen in that city. Those who attended from here any that the fair was the best that has ever been held in that city, and everybody seemed pleased with it. There were good races and the free attractions were good, while the evening's entertainment was said to be fine, making a very satisfactory day for the visitors.

PAYING THE ROAD TAX.

There are two ways of paying taxes. Maybe you never thought of it but here are two concrete examples that illustrate the point.

Two farmers had access to the market reports by phone, and both learned that the price of cotton was advanced a dollar a bale on a certain morning. One lived in a country where roads were good, the other where they were bad. Both used the same market.

One farmer hauled but one bale because he couldn't get through with a larger load. His gain for the day's trip was $1.00. The other farmer hauled four bales at a load because the roads were good. He made a $4.00 gain, and did it quicker than the other man made his $1.00. In other words, he paid a $3.00 tax that day on roads, but roads at that, and would continue to pay such tax until his county got good roads.

A farmer in Sullivan county, Tenn., had one hundred bushels of potatoes rot in his cellar because he couldn't haul them to his market place on account of bad roads. Potatoes went to $1.40 a bushel, and the town was shipping them in to feed that locality. Not only potatoes were shipped in, but ten carloads of all kinds of food products. The farmers lost that market by not being able to reach it. They paid a big tax for their bad roads.

So it goes. Wherever roads are bad at any season of the year the farmers pay a big road tax by their losses. Yet they complain not, nor do they weep. But let anyone advocate paved roads so they can reach market any day in the year and they complain of the taxes. They abuse the one who would in the end save them money.

What's the difference whether you lose $10.00 on a market loss because of bad roads, or pay $10.00 towards a road tax that gives you a permanent market? The difference is many fold the $10.00. One is a perpetual tax and poor business.

CLOSING A ROAD AGAINST PUBLIC TRAVEL BY THE COUNTY HIGHWAY COMMISSIONER.

While it is always against my wish to close a road and when it is possible to repair or construct a road without closing the highway I always do so. But in very many cases it is impossible to do good work without closing the road and in such cases the road must be closed.

It might be of general interest to the traveling public to know where I get my authority. To those interested I wish to call attention to Sec. 1317 M-6 Sub-Sec. 4, which reads as follows:

"The county highway commissioner or shall have power, in his discretion, to suspend the right to travel on any highway in process of construction or repair, by posting notices forbidding such travel at each end of said highway, and any one violating his order in that regard shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and be punished by a fine not exceeding one hundred dollars, and in addition thereto shall be liable for all damages done to such highway by such travel; said damages to be sued for and recovered by the county."

Stevens Point Beats Nekoosa.

The Stevens Point and Nekoosa base ball teams played a game at Nekoosa on Sunday, result, 12 to 4 in favor of the Point.

Nekoosa has been playing pretty baseball so far this season, and while they are not at the top of the heap or anything of that sort, they have been giving a good enough account of themselves so that their opponents knew they were in the game, but on Sunday they went to the bad. Those who saw the game said it was the poorest one they have played this season, notwithstanding the fact that they had a good battery and expected to put up the best game of the season.

However, Stevens Point was playing in their usual form and with the loose playing that Nekoosa did had no trouble in beating the paper makers.

Bound Over to Circuit Court.

John Wood of the town of Saratoga was up before Justice Brown on Tuesday on a charge of having robbed the house of Emory Lee, a neighbor of Wood's. Wood waived examination and will probably be taken before Judge Park in the near future.

The claim was made by Lee that Wood had broken into his house and stolen a small savings bank which contained a Columbian 50 cent piece and a foreign coin. Wood admitted the theft and when arrested had it in his hand where he had buried it in the ground. He stated as an excuse for his crime that Lee had stolen from him and he was just doing it to get even. Wood is a young man about 23 years of age.

WOODMEN'S VOTE ON RATES.

Only Small Percentage of Members Express a Choice.

For some months the members of the Modern Woodmen of America have been agitated over the problem of increasing the old premium rates sufficiently to meet the rapidly increasing demand for funds to pay death benefits as the membership grows older and the death rate accordingly grows larger. The subject was recently placed before the entire membership for an advisory vote. Of the 300,000 members, however, only 48,782 expressed a choice. The vote was so small that it will not be binding upon the society but it indicates to some extent the general trend of thought. The vote stood as follows:

For the old plan as is in operation at present, 26, 085; for an increase, 10,733; for the Chicago plan rates, an increase, 6,613; for adequate rate based on Woodmen's past experience, 3,697; for national fraternal congress rates, 397; for a step rate plan of increase, 233. It will be seen from the above that while 26,085 of the members voting favored continuing under the old plan, 21,733 favored an increase of some kind.

The Woodmen officials who had charge of the voting proposition were very much surprised at the lack of interest indicated by the small vote. Prominent members of the local Woodmen's lodge assert that it is not a question of whether the members favor or oppose the increase, it is simply a problem of finance and plain mathematics. They insist that the rates, absolutely must be increased or the society will be forced in a very short time to shelve its policy settlements or go out of business entirely.

Death of Miss Pratt.

Miss Cora Pratt died quite suddenly at her home early Monday morning, death being caused by a hemorrhage of the brain. Miss Pratt had been sick for some time past, although she was able to get around a part of the time, and had been up and about on Sunday, and the announcement of her death on Monday morning came as a great surprise to her friends in this city.

Miss Pratt was the oldest daughter of M. S. Pratt, and was born and reared in Grand Rapids, her birth occurring on the 27th of June, 1868, and was consequently in her 46th year. Miss Pratt taught school for some time but for a number of years past had made her home with her father. Besides her father she is survived by two sisters, Mrs. W. C. Clemons of Port Huron, Michigan, and Mrs. Warren F. Sanderson of Sauk Centre, Minn.

The funeral will be held on Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home at the corner of 8th and Oak streets, the services to be conducted by the Rev. A. C. Fiedner.

Duck Season Will Open Sept. 7.

The report sent out from Washington recently, and which has appeared in the press all over the middle west that a new federal law prohibits the shooting of wild ducks and wild geese because they are migratory birds is incorrect. The state game warden has been appealed to for a ruling on the matter and says that the federal law referred to prohibits the shooting of wild ducks and geese except from Sept. 7 to Dec. 15. The open season on the Mississippi river, however, is only from Nov. 1 to Dec. 16.

Dr. Lyons Acquitted.

Wausau, Wis.—In Justice Larnier's court Monday Russell Lyon was acquitted of the charge of violating the game laws of the state. He was charged with entering a field in which game birds abound with a dog and gun. The case was tried before a jury and a verdict of not guilty was returned. Mr. Lyon is of the opinion his arrest was a frameup and he is having the matter investigated. If his suspicions are verified it is probable arrests for perjury will be made.

It won't cost you a cent to look over what she has to offer, whether you want to buy or not.

There were over 200 in attendance and over one hundred pounds of chicken were cooked up. Otto Henechel acted as chief cook and the boys all claim the chowder was excellent. A big time was had by all present.

Joseph McConnell of the town of Ironson was a business visitor in the city on Tuesday.

Miss Mabel Nelhuus leaves the latter part of the week for Appleton where she will be employed.

Fred Ruesch of Alford was in the city on Tuesday on business. He reports crops all pretty good out his way notwithstanding the dry weather that has prevailed for some time past.

Miss Pave Warner has gone to Milwaukee where she will attend the Normal school during the ensuing year.

Miss Selma Peterson of Ironwood, Michigan, arrived in the city on Saturday for a visit of several weeks with her parents in the town of Seneca.

Miss Dorothy Steen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jonas Steen, departed on Friday night for Winnipeg, Canada, where she will be united in marriage in the near future to Emil Kernin, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Kernin of this city.

Mrs. Henry Blinnese left on Monday for Minneapolis where she will spend a couple of weeks visiting at the home of Mrs. Ackerman.

There was no general observance of labor day in this city only the banks, postoffice and county offices being closed during the day. In some places the organized labor unions hold a picnic on that day and get out and have a good time, but this does not seem to appeal to the working men and their families here.

E. A. Hannon of Waupun is spending several days in the city with his family who are visiting at the Chas. Kellogg home.

Miss Lena Klevene, who had been visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Rick for a week past left for her home in Chicago on Monday.

Misses Elizabeth and Florence Calkins of Stevens Point were guests at the home of their brother, Alvin, F. W. Calkins several days the past week.

The meeting of the Grand Rapids Federated clubs which was to have been held on September 5th has been postponed for one week, or until Friday, September 12th.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Karnatz of Milwaukee arrived in the city on Monday for a visit at the Fred Karnatz home. They will also visit with relatives in Rudolph before returning.

Mrs. August Boner of Milwaukee is visiting with relatives and friends in the city for several weeks. Mr. Boner was here to spend Sunday with his family returning again on Monday morning.

The streets on the east side are now in a state of decided disrepair, owing to the getting ready to pave with brick. However, it is hoped by all that the improvement will be worth the inconvenience that we are experiencing at the present time.

Monday and Tuesday, September first and second, were two of the warmest days we have experienced in this year, mercury hovering around the ninety mark nearly all day both days. It seemed warmer because everybody expects the heat to let up a little at this time of the year.

Mrs. W. Bruce, Mrs. Theo Engstrom, Miss Mayme Kennedy and Miss Mary Kruger of Rib Lake spent several days in the city the past week visiting at the Fred Kruger home on Grand Ave. Mrs. Bruce and Miss Kruger left here on Monday for Milwaukee, where Miss Kruger went to purchase her fall millinery stock.

S. N. Whittlesey of Cranmoor was in the city on Tuesday looking after some business matters. Mr. Whittlesey states that he will commence harvesting his cranberries next Tuesday. He has a slightly better crop than last year, although most of the growers have reported a little less than a season. Picking has already commenced on the Harry Whittlesey marsh and the crop is turning out fairly good.

SUNDAY, DEC. 7 WILL BE TUBERCULOSIS DAY HERE

Churches, Schools, Fraternal Orders and Others Will Assist This Year in Making the Day a Complete Success.

Wisconsin will observe Tuberculosis Day this year on the date set aside for the whole nation. The announcement was made from the office of the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis Association today. Formerly it was held earlier and the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis Association set a separate date in order to hold it in connection with the Christmas Seal Campaign, which was the case last year.

The movement will be furthered throughout the country by more than 1,000 anti-tuberculosis societies working through various state organizations and the National Association. Personal appeals will be made to clergymen, school principals and leaders of various organizations urging them to set aside a definite time during the week preceding or the week following December 7, for a lecture on tuberculosis.

Last year over 60,000 churches gave attention to this subject on Tuberculosis Day. It is hoped this year to swell the number of churches to 100,000 and to urge similar action besides in a large number of the schools and other societies. The Tuberculosis Day Campaign will come this year during the Red Cross Christmas Seal sale. It is planned to make the churches of those who claim they know, say that the ball cleared the fence by ten feet. The same drive in Milwaukee would have cleared the building in left field in distance while in height it would have cleared the centerfield bleachers. His next was a grounder to third, while his fifth was a high one, which was dropped by the fielder, allowing a run to score.

HAPPY IS SOME HITTER.

Felish Showing; the Big Ones Something About Hitting a Ball.

Kansas City, Mo., Aug. 29.—Did you ever see a ball hit so high and so far that it was lost from sight, and where even the batter's teammates were divided in their opinions as to where the ball really did land? Well, that is what happened yesterday when "Happy" Felch landed on his third straight extra base knock in as many times at bat.

Will Open Wholesale House.
Several of our young business men have associated themselves together for the purpose of opening a wholesale paper house. They intend to handle wrapping papers, tissues and similar stock and will probably capitalize at about $5,000 for a starter, although their plans are not complete as yet. It would seem as if a proposition of this sort would be a good one as Grand Rapids is centrally located and right near the source of supply for several of the commodities they will handle.

BROWN-ZILLMER.
Miss Lillian Brown of this city and Hugo Zillmer of Watertown were united in marriage at the east side Lutheran church on Thursday evening. Rev. Paulus performing the ceremony. Baseball Standings.
Following is the standing of the clubs in the local league at the present time:

The game on Labor Day between Nekoosa and Grand Rapids was won by Grand Rapids by a score of 8 to 3. This game does not count in the standing of the teams, being out of the regular schedule. The game between Stevens Point and Marshfield on Labor Day counted in the standing of the teams, being the game that had to be postponed on account of the rain.

Police Want Him.
The police are looking for a young fellow by the name of John Murphy, who has been working at Port Edwards for some time past. Murphy is charged with stealing a suit of clothes and other property from a fellow workman.

Murphy is about 18 or 20 years of age, 5 foot, 2 or 3 inches tall, has black hair and when last seen wore tan shoes and a white cap. The man who lost the clothes is John Zanco.

GAVE A GOOD FAIR.

Marshfield Exhibit Said to Be the Best For Years.

About two hundred people went up to Marshfield from this city by train on Thursday to attend the fair, and a number went up in autos, so that the city was well represented there. There was a larger crowd there on that day, one of the best ever seen in that city. Those who attended from here say that the fair was the best that has ever been held in that city, and everybody seemed pleased with it. There were good races and the free attractions were good, while the evening's entertainment was said to be fine, making a very satisfactory day for the visitors.

PAYING THE ROAD TAX.

There are two ways of paying taxes. Maybe you never thought of but one. Just here are two concrete examples that illustrate the point.

Two farmers had access to the market reports by phone, and both learned that the price of cotton was advanced a dollar a bale on a certain morning. One lived in a country where roads were good, the other where they were bad. Both used the same market.

One farmer hauled but one bale because he couldn't get through with a larger load. His gain for the day's trip was $1.00. The other farmer hauled four bales at a load because the roads were good. He made a $4.00 gain, and did it quicker than the other man made his $1.00. In other words, one man paid a $3.00 tax that day on roads, bad roads at that, and would continue to pay such tax until his county got good roads.

A farmer in Sullivan county, Tenn., had one hundred bushels of potatoes rot in his cellar because he couldn't get them to market. Potatoes went to $1.40 a bushel, and the town was shipping them in to feed that locality. Not only potatoes were shipped in, but ten carloads of all kinds of food products. The farmers lost that market by not being able to reach it. They paid a big tax for their bad roads.

So it goes. Whenever roads are bad at any season of the year the farmers pay a big road tax by their losses. Yet they complain not, nor do they weep. But let anyone advocate paved roads so they can reach market any day in the year and they complain of the taxes. They abuse the one who would in the end save them money.

Which is the difference whether you load $1.00 on a market lost because of bad roads, or pay $10.00 towards a road tax that gives you a permanent market? The difference is many fold—the $10.00. One is a perpetual tax—and poor business.

CLOSING A ROAD AGAINST PUBLIC TRAVEL BY THE COUNTY HIGHWAY COMMISSIONER.

While it is always against my wish to close a road and when it is possible to repair or construct a road without closing the highway I always do so. But in very many cases it is impossible to do good work without closing the road and in such cases the road must be closed.

It might be of general interest to the traveling public to know where I got my authority. To those interested I wish to call attention to Sec. 1317 M-6 Sub-sec. 3, which reads as follows:

The county highway commissioner or shall have power, in his discretion, to suspend the right to travel on any highway in process of construction or repair, by posting notices forbidding such travel at each end of said highway, and any one violating his order in that regard shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and be punished by a fine not exceeding one hundred dollars, and in addition thereto shall be liable for all damages done to such highway by such travel, said damages to be sued for and recovered by the county.

L. Amundson, County Highway Commissioner.

Stevens Point Beats Nekoosa.

The Stevens Point and Nekoosa baseball teams played a game at Nekoosa on Sunday, result, 12 to 4 in favor of the Point.

Nekoosa has been playing pretty baseball so far this season, and while they are not at the top of the heap or anything of that sort, they have been giving a good enough account of themselves so that their opponents know they were in the game, but on Sunday they went to the bad. Those who saw the game said it was the hottest one they have played this season, notwithstanding the fact that they had a good battery and expected to put up the best game of the season.

However, Stevens Point was playing in their usual form and with the loss playing that Nekoosa did had no trouble in beating the paper makers.

Bound Over to Circuit Court.
John Wood of the town of Saratoga was up before Justice Brown on Tuesday on a charge of having robbed the house of Emory Lee, a neighbor of Wood's. Wood waived examination and will probably be taken before Judge Park in the near future.

The claim was made by Lee that Wood had broken into his house and stolen a small savings bank which contained a Columbian 50 cent piece and a foreign coin. Wood admitted the theft and when arrested dug up the bank where he had buried it in the ground. He stated as an excuse for his crime that Lee had stolen from him and he was just doing it to get even. Wood is a young man about 23 years of age.

WOODMEN'S NOTE ON RATES.

Only Small Percentage of Members Express a Choice.

For some months the members of the Modern Woodmen of America have been agitated over the problem of increasing the old premium rates sufficiently to meet the rapidly increasing demand for funds to pay death benefits as the membership grows by leaps and bounds. The subject was recently placed before the entire membership for an advisory vote. Of the 200,000 members, however, only 48,782 expressed a choice. The vote was so small that it will not be binding upon the society but it indicates to some extent the general trend of thought. The vote stood as follows:

For the old plan as is in operation at present, 26, 085; for an increase, 10,732; for the Chicago plan rates, an increase, 6,613; for adequate rate based on Woodmen's past experience, 3,697; for national fraternal average rates, 327; for a new rate plan of increase, 235. It will be seen from the above that while 26,085 of the members voting favored continuing under the old plan, 21,723 favored an increase of some kind.

The Woodmen officials who had charge of the voting proposition were very much surprised at the lack of interest indicated by the small vote. From the members of the local Woodmen's lodge it was not a question of whether the members favor or oppose the increase, it is simply a problem of finance and plain mathematics. They insist that the rates, absolutely must be increased or the society will be forced in a very short time to shelve its policy settlements or go out of business entirely.

Death of Miss Pratt.

Miss Cora Pratt died quite suddenly at her home early Monday morning, death being caused by a hemorrhage of the brain. Miss Pratt had been sick for some time past, although she was able to be around a part of the time, and had been up and about on Sunday, and the announcement of her death on Monday morning came as a great surprise to her friends in this city.

Miss Pratt was the oldest daughter of M. S. Pratt, and was born and reared in Grand Rapids, her birth occurring on the 27th of June, 1848, and was consequently in her 64th year. Miss Pratt taught school for some time but for a number of years had been making her home with her father. Besides her father she is survived by two sisters, Mrs. P. W. Clement of Port Huron, Michigan, and Mrs. Warren P. Sanderson of Sank Centre, Minn.

The funeral will be held on Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the home at the corner of 8th and Oak streets, the services to be conducted by the Rev. A. C. Fletcher.

Duck Season Will Open Sept. 7.
The report went out from Washington recently, and which has appeared in the press all over the middle west that a new federal law prohibits the shooting of wild ducks and wild geese because they are migratory birds, is incorrect. The game game warden has been appealed to for a ruling on the matter and says that the federal law referred to prohibits the shooting of wild ducks and geese except from Sept. 7 to Dec. 16. The open season on the Mississippi river, however, is only from Nov. 1 to Dec. 16.

Mr. Lyons is of the opinion his arrest was a frame-up and he is having the matter investigated. If his suspicions are verified it is probable arrests for perjury will be made.

WHERE EDISON LEARNED TELEGRAPHY

On August 28 Thomas A. Edison is going back to Mount Clemens to visit the old passenger station where he learned telegraphy and began his career in the electrical world. He will be the guest of the city for the day, and it is expected that he will once more sit at his old place in the window facing the track as he did half a century ago, when both he and Mount Clemens were unknown to fame. The committee hopes to persuade the "Wizard" to send a message to President Wilson. Part of the old instrument at which Edison worked is still stored in one of the station buildings.

BANKERS WIN POINT

SENATE GETS OPINION ON THE CURRENCY BILL.

Senator Owens Sees Merit in Plan to Reduce the Quality of Bank Reserves.

Washington, Aug. 23.—In answer to the criticism of the currency bill made by the conference of bankers at Chicago, the administration's forces in the house will tighten up the lines and make a more vigorous endorsement of the currency bill as it now stands will be the result.

Informal conferences of Democratic members of the house currency committee emphasized the fact that the active supporters of the president's currency plan expect to pass the measure through the house without substantial change.

The proposal to reduce the quantity of reserves and give country banks the privilege of keeping part of their reserves in the large cities had many supporters, and ultimately may be worked into the bill in the senate, but the change is not expected in the house.

The bankers will have an opportunity to present their views openly to congress after the currency bill gets into the senate. Chairman Owen of the senate currency committee said that while hearings had not yet been arranged he expected leading representatives of the various "factions" among the bankers of the country would be invited to give their views of the bill to the senate committee.

"I see a great deal of merit in the proposal to reduce somewhat the quantity of the reserves," said Senator Owen.

The fact that the leading bankers hold differing views of the effect of the new legislation, particularly with regard to the possible reduction of loans and curtailment of credit, has led members of the senate committee to believe that a further discussion of the bill at open hearings would result in warring the co-operation and support of a large portion of the banking fraternity of the country.

MAY ASSIST SULZER

SENATOR NOW IN PRISON, SAID TO HAVE EXPOSED MANY CONSPIRACY.

GOVERNOR'S COUNSEL SPLIT?

New York Executive's Attorneys Are Reported to Be Estranged Over Demand for Indictment of "Boss" Murphy.

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 23.—An unconfirmed report was received among politicians here Monday that Senator Stiltwell, who is now serving a sentence in Sing Sing for bribery, had made a confession to Governor Sulzer, implicating five senators, one assemblyman and several Tammany men. Asked about the report, Governor Sulzer said he was not responsible for it.

The indictment of Charles F. Murphy, leader of Tammany hall; Aaron J. Levy, leader of the Democratic majority in the assembly, and James Frawley, chairman of the committee which investigated Governor Sulzer's campaign contributions, has been requested by the district attorneys of New York and Albany counties by Judge Lynn J. Arnold of Albany, an ardent Sulzer supporter.

A possible breach in the ranks of Governor Sulzer's supporters was indicated by the statement of former Judge D. Cady Herriek, who leads the governor's legal forces in the impeachment matter, that "counsel for Governor Sulzer have nothing to do with any alleged criminal proceedings against Charles F. Murphy, Senator Frawley or Assemblyman Levy and are not pursuing any investigation of a criminal character against anyone."

"We would not be astonished if indictments were returned within forty-eight hours," said James C. Garrison, a New York newspaper man who is managing the publicity end of the governor's defense.

In support of the charge of criminal conspiracy against Boss Murphy and his henchmen the Sulzer followers declare they have evidence that some of the Republican assemblymen who voted to impeach the governor were told by their political bosses that unless they voted down "Tammany they would be turned down for re-election."

One of these assemblymen rebelled at this coercion and he voted to sustain Sulzer. When he asked for a re-nomination he was told he could not have it.

"I'll tell all I know about this impeachment and if you don't put me in the field, I am reported to have answered."

He was re-nominated.

THAW CHANGES PLANS

HABEAS CORPUS PROCEEDINGS WITHDRAWN BY LAWYERS.

Evenly In Bankruptcy Proceedings Says Checks Given Her to Beck Divorce Were Not Paid.

Sherbrooke, Que., Aug. 23.—Thaw's attorneys withdrew the writ of habeas corpus Tuesday obtained in his behalf and the fugitive from Mattawan will not be arraigned in the superior court, as had been expected. The withdrawal of the writ may prolong the proceedings indefinitely.

Under the present commitment, Thaw's counsel assert, he might elect to have a hearing before a district magistrate or demand a jury trial before the king's bench, criminal side, which does not sit until October.

The New York state forces fighting for the return of Thaw held that the writ of habeas corpus cannot be abandoned without formal permission of the court and that, in any event, Thaw will be forced into court even if the commitment on which he is held has to be quashed. If the state forces can make good their threat, Thaw may be discharged today and turned over to the immigration authorities for deportation before night.

Thaw spent the greater part of the day working out more details of his publicity campaign. His ambitions may be nipped to a certain extent by the curtailment of interviews, but he can still send out statements.

New York, Aug. 23.—Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, testifying before a referee in bankruptcy, swore that Harry Thaw's mother had contracted to pay her $15,000 cash and $1,000 a month so long as she should live in return for Evelyn's entering into an action for the annulment of her marriage to Harry Thaw.

WATSON PAID BY THE WEEK

H. E. Mills Says He Hired Him for Lobby Work—Mullhall Hit McDermott.

Washington, Aug. 23.—Reiterating his charge that Representative McDermott of Illinois had "kipped" him off on numerous occasions regarding the prospects of pro-labor legislation which the National Association of Manufacturers desired to fight, Colonel Mullhall, former lobbyist for the association, again took the stand before the house lobby investigating committee Friday.

Mullhall said that he remembered specifically that in 1910 McDermott had sent him word to be on the lookout for a sundry civil bill amendment to the sundry civil bill.

I. N. McMichael, he said, was the bearer of the McDermott warning.

I. E. Mills of Racine, Wis., former chairman of the tariff commission of the National Association of Manufacturers, confirmed Martin M. Mullhall's statement that Mullhall advanced $500 to the estate of James E. Watson, former representative from Indiana.

NORMAL SCHOOL WANTED BY CITIES

Special Committee Visits Places Offering Sites.

BOARD TO MAKE SELECTION

City Awarded to Location Will Ask Next Legislature to Appropriate About $250,000 to Erect Building.

Madison.—A special committee of the state board of normal school regents is investigating suitable sites for a new normal school in the northern and eastern part of the state. It was visited Ocotoma, Green Bay, Rhinelander, Merrill, Wausau, Shawano and Antigo and inspected available sites for the proposed school. It will report its conclusions and recommendations to the state board of regents at the meeting of that body in September.

The final selection of the site will rest with the board. The committee consists of Theodore Kronshage of Milwaukee, president of the board; Mrs. Theodora Yumans of Wausau; O. H. Hamilton of Whitewater, John Harrington of Oshkosh and Emmet Horrocks of Eau Claire.

At the recent session of the legislature nearly every city in the north-eastern part of the state asked that the new state normal school be located within its boundaries. The contest among the cities grew spirited and threatened to develop into a lively fight when Senator Timothy Burke of Green Bay, who favored a bill for locating the next normal school in his city, suggested that the question of location be left to the state board of normal school regents.

The reports of the other contending cities accepted the suggestion and a bill was passed, which provided that the board of regents of normal schools be directed to select a suitable site for a state normal school in the north-eastern part of the state, the site to be selected from those offered therefor and under most favorable conditions to the state. After such selection the first new normal school thereafter located and constructed shall be located and constructed on the site so selected.

The city that is awarded the location will ask the next legislature to appropriate about $250,000 to erect the school building and a sufficient amount annually to maintain it.

Could Fatten Cattle in Wisconsin.
At least 26,000,000 head of cattle from the drought-stricken areas of the western states could be pastured on the wild cut over lands of northern Wisconsin, according to State Forester E. M. Griffith, who returned from a tour of that country. He believes the plan a feasible one and thinks that efforts should be made to have the cattle shipped here.

There are 15,000,000 acres, exclusive of the forestry reserve, of undeveloped wild land in northern Wisconsin," said Mr. Griffith. "During the past two years there has been an abundance of rain and as a consequence there is an abundance of natural feed. All of the streams, lakes and swamps have plenty of water. The agricultural department figure that for permanent feeding purposes one acre will supply one cow. Upon the three months basis reckoning before snow falls, with the growth of grass as it is, two or possibly more could be fed on an acre. It would be easy it seems to me to take care of 26,000,000 head of stock.

"Millions of dollars can be made by shipping the cattle to feeders in Wisconsin for feeding purposes. A transit rate could be secured at the railroads whereby the cattle could be shipped to these pasture lands and then fattened, before being sent on to the markets. The plan is so feasible that I think that some plan could be worked out for feeding cattle upon these lands every year beginning with May 15."

Mr. Griffith said that he had thought of the plan considerably. He said that some buyers now purchase cattle from the west at the Chicago market and ship them to feeding grounds and then reship them back to market when fattened.

Announcement was made of the resignation of Arthur W. Prehn of Wausau as a member of the state board of agriculture. Mr. Prehn was elected vice-president of the Pan-Pacific exposition committee. James J. Nelson of Amherst has been appointed as successor to Mr. Prehn.

Scarcity of Teachers.
A national scarcity of teachers in vocational lines prevails this summer. Wide applications to the University of Wisconsin for teachers to fill high-grade places in all lines of educational activity are unusually great, the committee having the matter in charge finds it extremely difficult to supply the needs of the vocational departments in public schools. The last few years have witnessed an extraordinary increase in such departments to schools in all parts of the nation.

BANKERS WIN POINT

SENATE GETS OPINION ON THE CURRENCY BILL.

Senator Owens Sees Merit in Plan to Reduce the Quality of Bank Reserves.

Washington, Aug. 26.—In answer to the criticism of the currency bill made by the conference of bankers at Chicago, the administration's forces in the house will tighten up the lines and make vigorous endorsement of the currency bill as it now stands will be the result.

Informal conferences of Democratic members of the house currency committee emphasized the fact that the active supporters of the president's currency plan expect to pass the measure through the house without substantial changes.

The proposal to reduce the quantity of reserves and give country banks the privilege of keeping part of their reserves in the large cities had many supporters, and ultimately will be worked into the bill in the senate, but the change is not expected in the house.

The bankers will have an opportunity to present their views openly to congress after the currency bill gets into the senate. Chairman Owen of the senate currency committee said that while hearings had not yet been arranged he expected leading representatives of the various "factions" of the country would be invited to give their views of the bill to the senate committee.

"I see a great deal of merit in the proposal to reduce somewhat the quantity of the reserves," said Senator Owen.

The fact that the leading bankers hold differing views of the effect of the new legislation, particularly with regard to the possible reduction of loans and curtailment of credit, has led members of the senate committee to believe that a further discussion of the bill at open hearings would result in waning the co-operation and support of a large portion of the banking fraternity of the country.

MAY ASSIST SULZER

SENATOR NOW IN PRISON, SAID TO HAVE EXPOSED MANY CONSPIRACY.

GOVERNOR'S COUNSEL SPLIT?

New York Executive's Attorneys Are Reported to Be Estranged Over Demand for Indictment of "Boss" Murphy.

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 27.—An unconfirmed report was revived among politicians here Monday that Senator Stittwell, who is now serving a sentence in Sing Sing for bribery, had made a confession to Governor Sulzer, implicating five senators, one as a confederate and several Tammany members.

The indictment of Charles F. Murphy, leader of Tammany hall; Aaron J. Levy, leader of the Democratic majority in the assembly, and James Frawley, chairman of the committee which investigated Governor Sulzer's campaign contributions, has been re-opened by the district attorneys of New York and Albany counties by Judge Lynn J. Arnold of Albany, an ardent Sulzer supporter.

A possible breach in the ranks of Governor Sulzer's supporters was indicated by the statement of former Judge D. Cady Herlick, who leads the governor's legal forces in the impeachment matter, that "counsel for Governor Sulzer have nothing to do with any alleged criminal proceedings against Charles F. Murphy, Senator Frawley or Assemblyman Levy and are not pursuing any investigation of a criminal character against anyone."

"We would not be assisted in indictments were returned within forty-eight hours," said James C. Garrison, a New York newspaper man who is managing the publicity end of the governor's defense.

In support of the charge of criminal conspiracy against Boss Murphy and his lieutenants, the Sulzer followers on numerous occasions regarding the prospects of pro-labor legislation which the National Association of Manufacturers desired to fight, Coleen Mulhall, former lobbyist for the association, again took the stand before the grand jury.

One of these assemblymen rebelled at this coercion and he voted to sustain Sulzer. When he asked for a re-nomination he was told he could not have it.

"I'll tell all I know about this impeachment trick if you don't put me on the ticket," he is reported to have answered.

THAW CHANGES PLANS

HABEAS CORPUS PROCEEDINGS WITHDRAWN BY LAWYERS.

Evelyn in Bankruptcy Proceedings Says Checks Given Her to Seek Divorce Were Not Paid.

Sherbrooke, Que., Aug. 28.—Thaw's attorneys withdrew the writ of habeas corpus Tuesday obtained in his behalf and the fugitive from Matkewas will not be arraigned in the superior court, as had been expected. "The writ of habeas corpus would prolong the proceedings indefinitely."

Under the present commitment, Thaw's counsel assert, he might elect to have a hearing before a district magistrate or demand a jury trial before the king's bench, criminal side, which does not sit until October. "The New York state forces fighting for the return of Thaw hold that the writ of habeas corpus cannot be abandoned without formal permission of the court and that, in any event, Thaw will be forced into court even if the commitment on which he is held has to be quashed. If the state forces can make good their threat, Thaw may be discharged today and turned over to the immigration authorities for deportation before night."

Thaw spent the greater part of the day working out more details of his publicity campaign. His ambitions may be upped to a certain extent by the curtailment of interviews, but he can still send out statements. "Thaw, testifying before a referee in bankruptcy, swore that Harry Thaw's mother had contracted to pay her $15,000 cash and $1,000 a month so long as she should live in return for Evelyn's entering into an action for the annulment of her marriage to Harry Thaw."

WATSON PAID BY THE WEEK

H. E. Mills Says He Hired Him for Lobby Work—Mullhall Hit McDermott.

Washington, Aug. 25.—Retracting his charge that Representative McPherson of Illinois had "tipped him off" on numerous occasions regarding the prospects of pro-labor legislation which the National Association of Manufacturers desired to fight, Coleen Mulhall, former lobbyist for the association, again took the stand before the grand jury.

H. E. Mills of the tariff commission of the National Association of Manufacturers, confirmed Martin M. Mulhall's statement that Mulhall advanced $500 to the estate of James E. Watson, former representative from Indiana.

NORMAL SCHOOL WANTED BY CITIES

Special Committee Visits Places Offering Sites.

BOARD TO MAKE SELECTION

City Awarded to Location Will Ask Next Legislature to Appropriate About $250,000 to Erect Building.

Madison.—A special committee of the state board of normal school regents is investigating suitable sites for a new normal school in the north-eastern part of the state. It was visited recently by Attorney General Owen, given to Chief Engineer Birsh of the highway commission, and may levy a tax there before the county board has designated the road proposed to be improved as a part of the county highway system.

The opinion of the highway commission is a seeming conflict between two enactments of the late legislature. The bill amending the highway commission law provides that villages and cities of the fourth class might avail themselves of the state aid in 1915, but a later law made further provision that aid might be sooner received by raising the tax, necessary to levy the tax even before the county board had designated the highway as a part of the county system.

This law now will be taken advantage of by numerous villages and cities of less than 5,000 population. To William L. Harrison of the industrial commission, Attorney General Owen gives an opinion to the effect that an apprenticeship indenture may be vacated by mutual consent of all the parties, parents, the apprentice and the master.

An opinion of District Attorney Thomas C. Downey, Fond du Lac county, holds that the municipal court of the city and town of Ripon has no jurisdiction to try persons charged with abandonment and non-support.

Epidemic of Rabies in State Checked.
For nine months no victim of rabies has been treated at the state hygienic laboratory on University hill.

The epidemic, starting in Wisconsin in the fall of 1907 and spreading rapidly from the region of Beloit northward through the eastern tier of counties, has ceased. During that time the western disease was prevalent in the southwestern counties, but it has not become so serious there in its ravages.

From July 1, 1911, to July 1, 1912, the laboratory examined 152 brains of animals slaughtered for this disease. For the year ending July 1, 1913, the number of specimens sent in was only 56 and the percentage of rabies was very low.

Fourth Class Towns Under Act.

Villages and cities of the fourth class may benefit through state aid for road building next year, according to an opinion by Attorney General Owen, given to Chief Engineer Birsh of the highway commission, and may levy a tax there before the county board has designated the road proposed to be improved as a part of the county highway system.

The opinion of the highway commission is a seeming conflict between two enactments of the late legislature. The bill amending the highway commission law provides that villages and cities of the fourth class might avail themselves of the state aid in 1915, but a later law made further provision that aid might be sooner received by raising the tax, necessary to levy the tax even before the county board had designated the highway as a part of the county system.

This law now will be taken advantage of by numerous villages and cities of less than 5,000 population. To William L. Harrison of the industrial commission, Attorney General Owen gives an opinion to the effect that an apprenticeship indenture may be vacated by mutual consent of all the parties, parents, the apprentice and the master.

An opinion of District Attorney Thomas C. Downey, Fond du Lac county, holds that the municipal court of the city and town of Ripon has no jurisdiction to try persons charged with abandonment and non-support.

Property Rights and Persons.

President Wilson in World's Work.

What I am interested in is having the Government of the United States more concerned about human rights than about property rights. Property is an instrument of humanity; humanity isn't an instrument of property. And yet when you see some men riding their great industries as if they were driving a car of juggernaut, not looking to see what multitudes of people are being crushed before the car, and how their lives in the crumbling of their industry, you wonder how long men are going to be permitted to think more of their property than they think of their men.

Did you never think of it?—men are cheap and machinery is dear; many a superintendent is dismissed for over-driving a delicate machine, who wouldn't be dismissed for over-driving an overtaxed man. You can discard your man and replace him; there are others ready to come to his place; but you can't without great cost, discard your machine and put a new one in its place. You are less apt, therefore, to look upon your men as the essential vital foundation part of your whole business. It is time that property, as compared with humanity, should take second place, not first place.

We must see to it that there is no over-crowding, that there is no bad sanitation, that there is no unnecessary spread of avoidable diseases, that the purity of food is safeguarded, that there is every precaution against accident, that women are not driven to impossible tasks, nor children permitted to spend their energy before it is fit to be spent. The hope and elasticity of the race must be preserved; men must be preserved according to their individual needs, and not according to the programs of industry merely. What is the use of having industry, if we perish in producing it? If we die in trying to feed ourselves, why should we eat? If we die in trying to get a foothold in the crowd, why not let the crowd trample us sooner and be done with it?

I tell you that there is beginning to beat in this nation a great pulse of irresistible sympathy which is going to transform the processes of government amongst us. The strength of America is proportioned only to the health, the energy, the hope, the elasticity, the buoyancy of the American people.

TEACHING SEX HYGIENE.

(Manitowoc News.)

Educators everywhere will watch with interest the result of the installation of a course in sex hygiene in the Chicago public schools. If their parents object to the instruction of sex in the schools, they will be excused from the classes.

It is a rather peculiar fact that while the American people are quite willingly aiding in the fight against tuberculosis, infantile paralysis, diphtheria, and certain other contagious diseases they seem to dread to assist in battling against the spread of these other terrible diseases which maim and cripple and kill not only the persons affected, but will commit even more serious ravages upon generations to come. So-called "private diseases" are just as much a matter of public concern as any other contagious affliction.

As Miss Jane Addams says, the course of instruction offered in Chicago is prepared not because children are ignorant or innocent, but "because they are full of corrupt and misleading knowledge."

A STATISTICAL TRIUMPH.

We heard a political speaker once make the statement "that anything could be proven by statistics" and we are beginning to think that he was right, for a man down in Madison has discovered that the expense of running the government of Wisconsin is not high, and gives the figures to prove it.

In fact he shows that the expense in this state per capita is lower than that in many of the other states, all proven by statistics.

There is something peculiar about statistics. When a man gets into an argument, no matter on what subject, if he can reel off a lot of figures to sustain his side of the question, the other fellow generally takes to the woods, no matter whether the figures are authentic.

The reason of this probably is that very few men are gifted with the faculty of retaining in their mind a whole list of figures, and the consequence is that a man of this kind is generally alone in a crowd, and has things all his own way.

However, it must have taken some delving to dig up the necessary figures to prove that the state administration is running things in an economical manner, and it is doubtful if the average tax-payer will swallow the information and put the same gang back into office for them to try it all over again.

Port Washington Star: There is not a shadow of evidence of a character that would be admitted in a court of reputable standing to give color to the charge of catering to Stalwart Republican support for Krael in the 1912 campaign. The charge was made by the Milwaukee Journal to create dissension among Democrats. Without investigation, certain editors of so-called Democratic papers have repeated the charge and both the Journal and its echoes have reiterated the charge so often that they have believed it to be true. This unwarranted charge has resulted in some Democrats being misled. That more Democrats have not fallen into the trap is due to the wisdom of those who helped organize the Democratic State Press association, and who knew the Journal for the unreliable sheet it is.

THE BRAIN OF A MAN.

In the actions of men, the expression of their emotions, there are contradictions and surprises absolutely without limit.

It seems unbelievable that a great general, able to conquer the world, was Napoleon, should be an ineffectual liar, and delight in falsifying events to make himself appear greater.

It is phenomenal that Rousseau, whose noble genius inspired the French revolution, who wrote the greatest of books on education of children, should have left his five children on the steps of a foundling asylum.

Once came along Sam Lewis, the great English money-lender, to amaze us still further.

Lewis is dead. While he lived he was considered—justly—one of nature's prize vultures.

He was merciless in his extortions. He had his agents in Monte Carlo, leading to unfortunate young men, there at criminal interests. He lent to women and men, old and young, and always gouged them.

If ghosts really travel, many a suicidal ghost will come to sit on Sam Lewis' grave.

Would you expect to find in the mind of such a man any real generosity or sentiment?

Read his will. It is a struggle between charity and sentiment—sentiment getting the better of it.

He married a young woman—a chorus girl. He wanted the satisfaction of pleasing her thoroughly and therefore left her 10 of his 20 millions. He asked her to give away in her own name five millions to various charities which he enumerated.

The complicated money shark was complicated to the end. He wanted to give to his wife and he wanted to give to charity at the same time.

Many of us are inclined to judge by first impressions. All of us practically judge absolutely by a few ascertained facts. Yet, when the human mind is the subject of study, facts are at least unreliable as theories.

When a fire breaks out in a prison it is not unusual to find a murderer willing to risk his life to save that of another.

Thieves are perhaps more generous than any other class of citizens. These who rob the poor through trusts are liberal in helping lying-in hospitals and universities.

A woman is capable of loving a man so much that she will cruelly ill-treat his children because a former wife was their mother.

The theory of the Darwinians that we have looked up in us an animal ancestry might help perhaps to explain our queer mental contradictions. There is not the slightest doubt that man's mind in an epitome of all the animal characteristics.

As we have said before, the dog's friendship, the horse's ambition, the pig's gluttony, the tiger's ferocity, the cunning of the fox may all be found typified in different men, and occasionally all in one man.

Our mental contradictions perhaps depend on that particular animal ancestor which takes control of us at certain periods.

The heart which each of us carries around is really nothing but a pump, a powerful muscle, which admirably does its work, irrigating the system, forcing the blood through the lungs where it takes up every few seconds fresh supplies of oxygen and life.

Formerly the work of the heart was not understood. People did not know that the blood circulated until Harvey came along in 1616 with his discovery. The heart was felt beating in the breast. It seemed to be the one thing constantly alive. Poets and lovers concluded that it must be the seat of the emotions. As a matter of fact, it has no more to do with the emotions than the kidneys or liver. When we receive in our brains an impression of grief or joy this is communicated through the nerves to the heart, quickening or retarding the circulation of the blood.

Therefore many of us still imagine the heart has something to do with our sentiments, and therefore, we speak of the complicated human heart, instead of being accurate and speaking of the complicated human brain.—Hearst Papers.

SENECA.

Wm. Jackson and Joe Andrew have each erected a silo during the past summer having become convinced that this is the proper method for those who wish to keep milk cows in prime condition during the winter months.

The lack of rain for some time past has caused things in this town to dry up pretty much during the past two weeks, although most of the crops were out of the way before the dry weather came.

Wm. Putzler has been marketing his crop of apples of late, he having between two and three hundred bushels this year. Mr. Putzler takes considerable pride in his apples and being pretty well versed in the methods of raising and taking care of the trees, has pretty good success with them. He has been receiving from eighty cents to a dollar a bushel for his crop.

The melon crop in this section is beginning to come into market, and a number in this vicinity have turned their attention to this branch of farming so that they are able to supply the demand. The melons this year seem to be of a prime quality and it is reported that the crop is pretty good, although a trifle later than usual.

VEESPER.

By Saturday night our state road will be completed from the town of Sigel line to Morn's corner. We think we can say without contradiction that it is the best stone road in Wood County. It is well rounded and properly attended. The foreman John Monagan is to be congratulated for having done an excellent job.

The Heinz Pickle Co. are anticipating 125 bushels to the acre. In anticipating this yield they have ordered their tank crew back here to erect three more large tanks at this station. This will complete the battery of tanks so the building can be erected over them.

A. P. Bean, the enterprising Guernsey breeder, took nine head of his Guernseys to the Marshall fair Monday eve. Last year he pulled down several premiums and was a few dollars ahead notwithstanding that the premiums are remarkably low. Here is hoping he will succeed this year.

Geo. T. Rowland of Grand Rapids, was the guest of his daughter, Mrs. P. E. Murgatroyd a few days last week.

STATE FAIR.

Numerous individuals and private business institutions will lend valuable assistance to the Wisconsin state fair, Milwaukee, Sept. 8-12, by offering special premiums to encourage exhibits in certain lines. Many of these competitions are among the most meritorious at the fair and lend much to the success of the exhibition.

The Wisconsin Agriculturist offers a watch fob, gold, bronze, or silver, plated, to the Wisconsin farmer who stands highest in the number of winners in the various classes.

The Agriculturist also offers prizes for horses, dairy, swine, grains, cattle, poultry, sheep and the county exhibit, also in dairy and the woman's work and the education departments. The woman's prize probably will be a medal and those for the county exhibits and education departments probably cups.

Liberal special prizes are offered for a large number of exhibits, particularly in the live stock and agricultural departments. The Percheron Society of America offers liberal cash premiums, and numerous gold and silver medals, for winners in twelve special classes.

The Percheron Society of America offers special prizes for pure bred Percherons and Clydesdales of each sex, foaled in Wisconsin in 1912. The American association of Importers and Breeders of Belgian draft horses offers special cash prizes for winners in seven special classes of Belgians.

Among other organizations which will donate special premiums for winners in breeds of stock in which they are particularly interested are the American Hereford Cattle Breeders' association, the American Aberdeen-Angus association, the Wisconsin Holstein Friesian Breeders' association, the American Jersey Cattle club and the American Swiss Cattle Breeders' association.

The board of agriculture unites in presenting all these special premiums. Mrs. Adde P. Howie, Elm Grove, first and only woman member of the board of agriculture, offers a cash prize for the best two-year-old Jersey heifer bred and owned by a Wisconsin farmer who has never before exhibited cattle at any state fair.

In the sheep and swine departments special prizes are offered by the following, with the state board of agriculture co-operating:

The American Schropshire Registry association, the Wisconsin Sheep Breeders' association, the American Hampshire Sheep association, the American Cotswold Registry association, the Wisconsin Poland China Breeders' association, the Wisconsin Berkshire Breeders' association, American Duroc-Jersey Swine Breeders' association and the national Duroc-Jersey association.

The L. L. Olds Seed company, Madison, offers special cash premiums for grains and vegetables grown from seeds purchased from them in 1912. The Curry Bros. Co., Milwaukee, offers cash premiums for vegetables grown from seeds purchased from them in 1912. Under similar conditions the Gurney Seed and Nursery company offers cash prizes for a large number of special exhibits of grains, vegetables and fruit.

Peter Henderson & Co., of New York, offers cash prizes for exhibits of vegetables and flowers grown from Henderson seeds. The Curry Bros. Co., Milwaukee, also offers cash prizes for the best displays of cut flowers grown from Curry Bros. seeds.

Dollar Wheat and Spuds Predicted. "Dollar wheat, dollar corn and dollar potatoes"—this is the song sung by the Northwest Farmstead, the publication of the Orange Judd company.

her prices on dairy products are also expected, the paper declaring in this week's issue that wholesale prices for fancy butter should be 40 cents, prime quality cheese, 20 cents, and fancy milk, 10 cents a quart.

America has the biggest and best wheat crop ever grown and other countries have nearly normal yields, the Farmstead says. But the world's production of spuds, peas, corn, rye, barley and the corn crop is the smallest ever known, hence the demand for wheat should be great enough to make the wheat price at Chicago $1.

The corn crop in the United States many not exceed 2,300,000 bushels, and the rest of the world will harvest less than usual, so the total crop may be 700,000 to 1,000,000,000 bushels short. Reduced yield of hay and forage crops should increase the demand, the Farmstead figures, and as corn is worth for feeding purposes as much as wheat, the price ought to be the same.

SARATOGA.

(Too late for last week.)

John Bruns, who moved onto the James Driscoll place last April recently purchased a fine team of colts from John McGirr.

Mr. Hancock, who recently purchased 40 acres of the Schoepf farm was in our town last week looking over his new farm.

Mr. Peak of Centerville, Iowa, is prospecting in the vicinity of the Ten Mile Creek and may decide to settle in our midst.

The prairie chickens seem to be plentiful in our midst and if the sports of Grand Rapids will only do as they have in former years and delay their "hunting" till after dinner, we may eat a few ourselves again this fall. It's the early bird that escapes the city hunter's gun and the chickens are "wise" to it here.

Fashion pulls off some great stunts. The sleeves of the women were ten years ago would make skirts for them nowadays.

Wood County Normal to Open Sept. 8.

The Wood County Normal will open for regular work Tuesday, Sept. 9, 1913. Those wishing assistance in finding boarding places or places to work for board should come Monday, Sept. 8. M. H. Jackson, Principal, Grand Rapids, Wis., 25.

The Vivaphone, singing and talking pictures will be the attraction at Daly's Theatre, Thursday, Sept. 4. Just think of a motion picture singing, talking and laughing. A decade ago, if you were to prophesy such a thing, the prophet would be laughed at; yet today it is a reality and is occupying the attention of scientists and laymen all over the world. The Vivaphone is an extraordinary device and is totally different in scheme and construction from other talking picture patents. The films are of a special make and the apparatus that talks faithfully reproduces the human voice and other sounds in perfect synchronization with the action of the pictures. # "HANDS OFF" IS WILSON'S POLICY

Nonintervention and Neutrality Toward Mexico.

TO PROTECT ALL AMERICANS

President's Message Declares Fighting Factionists Are to Be Held to Strict Responsibility for Safe Guard of Foreigners—Americans Urged to Leave.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 25.—President Wilson appeared in person before Congress and laid bare to the world the details of this nation's efforts to bring about peace in Mexico.

The message was distinctly specific in tone and contained little in the way of recommendation for future policy except the single one that this government must urge earnestly that all Americans should leave Mexico at once and that the United States should assist them to get out of Mexico in every way possible.

The president counsels delay before further action is taken and says:

Impatience Would Be Churlish

Impatience on our part would be churlish and would be fraught with every risk of wrong and folly. The door is not closed against the possibility, either upon the initiative of Mexico or upon our own, of the effort to bring order out of the confusion by friendly cooperative action should for unwise occasion arise.

So long as the misadventure continues we can only await the time of it in waiting to a realization of the actual facts. We cannot thrust our good offices upon them. The situation has been a little more time to work itself out in the near future.

It is my duty to lay before you fully and without reservation the facts concerning our present relations with the republic of Mexico. The deplorable posture of affairs in Mexico is not describable but I deem it my duty to speak very frankly of what this government has done and should continue to do in fulfillment of its obligation to Mexico itself as a friend and neighbor and to American citizens whose lives and vital interests are daily affected by the distressing condition which now obtain beyond our southern border.

U. S. A Friend of Mexico

These conditions touch us very nearly. Not merely because they lie at our very doors. That of course makes us more vividly and more constantly conscious of them and every instinct of neighborly interest and sympathy is aroused and urges us to them, but that is only one element in the determination of our duty. We are glad to call ourselves the friends of Mexico and we shall hope have many an occasion in happier times as well as in these days of trouble and confusion to show that our friendship is genuine and disinterested capable of sacrifice and very generous manifestation. The peace and prosperity and well-being of Mexico mean much more to us than merely an enlarged field for our commerce and enterprise. They mean an enlargement of the field of self-government and the realization of hopes and rights of a nation with whose best aspirations we deeply sympathize. We shall yet prove to the Mexican people that we know how to serve them without thinking how we shall serve ourselves.

World Wants Mexican Peace

But we are not the only friends of Mexico. The whole world desires her peace and progress and the whole world is interested as never before in Mexico. At last where all the world looks on Central America is about to be touched by the great routes of the world's trade and intercourse running free from ocean to ocean at the isthmus. The future has much in store for Mexico as for all the states of Central America but the best gifts can come to her only if she be ready and free to receive them and to enjoy them honorably. America in particular—America North and South and upon both continents—witnesses upon the development of Mexico and her development can be sound and lasting only if it be the product of a genuine freedom a just and ordered government founded upon law. And so can it be peaceful and fruitful of the benefits of peace. Mexico has a great and enviable future before her if only she choose and attain the paths of honest constitutional government.

No Peace in Sight

The present circumstances of the republic, I deeply regret to say, do not seem to promise even the foundations of such a peace. We have waited many months for the full of peace and anxiety, for the conditions there to improve and they have not improved. They have grown worse rather. The territory in some sort controlled by the provisional authorities at Mexico City has grown smaller not larger. The prospect of the pacification of the country even by arms has seemed to grow more and more remote and its pacification by the authorities at the capital is evidently impossible by any other means than force. Difficulties more and more entangle those who claim to constitute the legitimate government of the republic. They have not made good their claim in fact. Their successes in the field have proved only temporary. War and disorder, devastation and confusion seem to threaten to become the settled condition of the distracted country. As things are, we could wait no longer for a solution which every week seems farther away. It was our duty at least to volunteer our good offices—the offer to assist in effecting some arrangement which would bring relief and peace and set up a uniform ally acknowledged political authority there.

Tells of Instructions to Lind

Accordingly I took the liberty of sending the Hon. John Lind, formerly governor of Minnesota as my personal spokesman and representative to the city of Mexico with the following instructions:

Press very earnestly upon the attention of those who are now exercising authority or wielding influence in Mexico the following considerations and advice:

The government of the United States does not feel at liberty any longer to stand much else by while it becomes daily more and more evident that no real progress is being made in the establishment of a government in Mexico which will respect the country's civil liberties and respect the government of the United States does not stand in the same way with the other great governments of the world in respect to what is happening or what is likely to happen in Mexico. We offer our good offices not only because of our kind desire to play the part of a friend but also because we are expected by the powers of the world to act in Mexico's interest.

Acts in Interest of Mexico

We wish to act in these circumstances in the spirit of the most earnest and disinterested friendship which is our purpose in whatever we do or propose in this perplexing and distressing situation not only to pay the most scrupulous regard to the sovereignty and independence of Mexico that we take as a matter of course to which we are bound by every obligation of right and honor—but also to give every possible evidence that we act in the interest of Mexico alone and not in the interest of any person or body of persons who may have personal or property claims in Mexico which they may feel that they have the right to press. We are seeking to counsel Mexico for her own good and in the interest of her own peace and not for any other purpose whatever.

The government of the United States would be itself discredited if it had any selfish or ulterior purpose in transactions where the peace, happiness and prosperity of a whole people are involved. It is acting in its friendship to Mexico not as its selfish interest dictates.

All America Cries for Settlement

The political situation in Mexico is incompatible with the fulfillment of international obligations on the part of Mexico with the civilized development of Mexico herself and with the maintenance of tolerable political and economic conditions in Central America. It is no common occasion therefore that the United States of America cries out for a settlement.

A satisfactory settlement seems to be to be conditioned on: (a) An immediate cessation of fighting, through out Mexico a definite armistice solemnly entered into and scrupulously observed.

(b) Security given for an early and free election in which all will agree to take part.

(c) The election of a general officer to bind himself not to be a candidate for election as president of the republic at this election and

(d) The agreement of all parties to abide by the results of the election and to cooperation in the most loyal way in organizing and supporting the new administration.

The government of the United States will be glad to play any part in this settlement or in its carrying out which is honorable and consistent with international right. It pledges itself to recognize and in any way proper to assist the administration chosen and set up in Mexico in the way and on the conditions suggested.

Taking all the existing conditions into consideration the government of the United States can conceive of no reasons sufficient to justify those who are now attempting to shape the policy of exercising the authority of Mexico in defiance of the friendship thus offered. Can Mexico give the civilized world a satisfactory reason for rejecting our good offices?

Lind Showed Great Tact

Mr. Lind executed his delicate and difficult mission with singular tact, firmness and made clear to the authorities of the city of Mexico not only the purpose of his visit but also the spirit in which it had been undertaken. But the proposals he submitted were rejected. In a note, the full text of which I take the liberty of laying before you:

"I am led to believe that the authorities at Mexico City had been grossly misinformed and misled upon two points. They did not realize the spirit of the American people in this matter, their earnest friendliness and yet sober determination that some just solution be found for the Mexican difficulties, and they did not believe that the present administration spoke through Mr. Lind, for the American people."

Meanwhile, what is it our duty to do? Clearly, everything that we do must be rooted in patience and done with calm and disinterested deliberation. Impatience on our part would be childish, and would be fraught with every risk of wrong and folly. We can afford to exercise the self-restraint of a really great nation which realizes its own strength and seems to misuse it. It was our duty to offer our active assistance. It is now our duty to allow that true neutrality will set to enable the people of Mexico to set their affairs on their own feet and wait for a further opportunity to offer our friendly counsel. The door is not closed against the resumption, either upon the initiative of Mexico or upon our own, of the effort to bring order out of the confusion by friendly cooperative action, should fortunate occasion offer.

Urges Americans to Leave

We should earnestly urge all Americans to leave Mexico at once and should assist them to get away in every way possible. Not because we would mean to weaken in the least our efforts to safeguard their lives and their interests but because it is imperative that they should not take any unnecessary risks if it is physically possible for them to leave the country. We should let everyone who assumes to exercise authority in any part of Mexico know in the most unequivocal way that we shall vigilantly watch the fortunes of those Americans who cannot get away and shall hold those responsible for their sufferings and losses to a definite reckoning.

Will Remain Neutral

For the rest I deem it my duty to reiterate the authority conferred upon me by the law of March 14, 1912, to see to it that neither side in the struggle now going on in Mexico receive any assistance from this side of the border. I shall follow the usual course of nations in the matter of neutrality by forbidding the exportation of arms or munitions of war of any kind from the United States to any part of the republic of Mexico.

I am happy to say that several of the great governments of the world have given this government their generous moral support in urging upon the provisional authorities at the city of Mexico the acceptances of our proffered good offices in the spirit in which they were made.

Gambao's Reply to Wilson

Washington, Aug. 25.—The following is a synopsis of the reply of Senator Gambao to the proposals of the American government conveyed through Hon. John Lind as transmitted to Congress by the president.

In his reply to the American proposals Senator Gambao the Mexican minister of foreign affairs urges the following points:

That President Wilson's imputation that no progress is being made to ward the restoration of peace in Mexico is not true.

That the fact the Mexican government enjoys the recognition of nearly all the great nations of the world is proof that it is a true and honorable administration.

That the proposal of an armistice is impossible because the nations do not propose armistice with hands. To grant an armistice would be to recognize the belligerency of the rebels.

That the request that General Lind should not be a candidate for the presidency is strange and unwarranted.

That the election of General Huerta was legal.

That the American proposals are humiliating and unsound.

That Mexico's ambassador should be received in Mexico and that the United States could send a new ambassador to Mexico.

Ocean Travelers Take Notice

I am passing a demand for more luxury in the way of dining deck spaces to carry boats to all the boats. Each had secret romantic temptations of that period when they were sweethearts, but the widows will was as inflexible as his.

They were not enemies, when they met they would bow and sometimes speak but their spoken words acted as a barrier between them. Thus matters ran along for a year after Yookum's return.

March came snowy and blustering. The winds were incessant. Yookum was harnessing his horse for the first playing day. When he felt a vibration in the back of his head, he turned to defend himself but everything went before his eyes and with the sense of being carried away on a swift river he lapsed into unconsciousness.

He opened his eyes, a few days later, and he seemed, the first thing that lit upon was the Widow Wilson.

He was lying in bed in a darkened room and she sat by his side. Her eyes were red from crying. Yookum endeavored to sit up.

"Hush," she said, gently pressing him backward. "You have been very ill. You must lie still!"

The widow in his house! Yookum had often pictured the possibility of such an occurrence. "Do you remember when we went down to the stream that night I asked you, and found a bunch of wild myrtle growing and how I put it in your hair?"

"And then you told me you loved me," said Adeline.

"And I've loved you ever since, Adeline," he continued, taking her hand. Adeline Wilson made no resistance but her eyes were still downcast.

"Why did you marry Wilson, dear?" asked the man.

For the first time she raised her eyes. "I guess because I was a fool," she answered.

"And you couldn't manage to care for me just the least bit, could you, Adeline?" he asked.

The widow was tracing out the pattern upon the counterpane. "Why wouldn't you come to see me?" she asked suddenly.

"I guess for the same reason that you married Wilson," she answered.

"I'm stubborn as you are. But I'm sorry. And when I think that it was you who gave him and came to me, it just makes me feel cheap. Did they get the robbery?"

"Robbers?" What robbers?" asked Adeline looking at him curiously.

"The men who struck me down. Sick fellows they must have been. There was a lot of them. I was lying on the ground in broad daylight when they got me and I never so much as saw or heard them."

"Where do you think you are, Will?" inquired the Widow Wilson.

"Why, at home of course," he answered. "Where else should I be?"

But I see you've changed the furniture round haven't you?"

"The Widow Wilson was laughing and crying hysterically. Yookum looked at her in wonder.

"Don't you know that when our fathers built their homes they made them both the same and got the same kind of furniture?" she asked when she had recovered her self-possession.

"You mean—that I'm in your house, Adeline?" he cried. "Who brought me here?"

"I brought myself my dear, yesterday morning. There weren't any robbers. Will. It was a cyclone. Pick you up from your plow and carried you nicely through the air and plunked you down beside me on a bed of hay. I pulled down my Bessie and her calf. If that plow hadn't toppled over on your head—"

But the Widow Wilson did not have a chance to finish just then for William Yookum had caught her in his arms with surprising strength for a sick man. "Show me and you can't talk when you are being kissed, they say," he said.

WORK OF CYCLONE

Acts as Matchmaker and Reunites Lovers After Many Years of Misunderstanding.

By JOHN ALWAYNE.

"Why don't you and the Widow Will son get hitched?" his cronies would ask of William Yookum at the village store. And Yookum, with a sudden flash of anger in his blue eyes would answer:

"I don't go courting no women. When they want me let 'em send for me."

All of which would duly find its way to the Widow Wilson's ears through the wives of the various auditors of Yookum's ultimatum.

Nevertheless it did seem strange that two old friends should live in chilly isolation upon neighboring ranches. True the ranches were quarter sections, and at least half a mile lay between the two houses. But they were the nearest neighbors of one another and they had known each other since childhood. Yookum was a man of fifty, and the widow might have been forty-five—though she did not look anywhere near it.

There were few residents of the little Kansas settlement who remembered the time when it had been a frontier outpost. But everybody knew that old man Farley and old man Yookum had migrated together and fought Indians together. The children had grown up together and everybody had expected them to get married.

Then Wilson had come along and snatched Adeline Farley out of Yookum's hand—almost literally for the hands had been announced when the startling news came from Kansas City that the pair were man and wife. Old Farley forgave his daughter and took his home when Wilson deserted his young bride, but Yookum never got over it. He went to California and was not heard of for five and twenty years. Then he drifted back to take up land in the town of his birth to find all his old friends scattered or dead, and Adeline Wilson a widow farming his father's land.

Yookum had never married. Gossip averred that he and the widow would soon come together even though a bitter enmity seemed to rage between them. But Yookum was paid as well as his. Thus when he was talked, he returned the answer given above.

"I should think Adeline that a comparatively young woman like you would think of marrying again her friends would say thinking of her neighbor."

"If it will Yookum you're thinking of," Mrs. Wilson answered. "You all dead wrong. When a man wants to come courting me let him come and ask me. I don't go out of the way to invite any man into my home."

"I'll never enter her home until she asks me," was Yookum's answer and the two stood on. Inwardly both regretted the position they had taken. Each had secret romantic temptations of that period when they were sweethearts, but the widows will was as inflexible as his.

They were not enemies, when they met they would bow and sometimes speak but their spoken words acted as a barrier between them. Thus matters ran along for a year after Yookum's return.

UNMOVED BY GOOD FORTUNE

John McCluskey Evidently Possessed of All the Well Known Calmness of the Scotch Nature.

It was said of John McCluskey when the United States was in the world that he was the calmest man in the world. Throughout his sixty years he had been a farm laborer in Scotland. Some months previously his brother James died and left a fortune of several hundred thousand dollars to the brother he had not seen since they had each other good by in the health of forty years before.

A lawyer was appointed the administrator. It was his duty to find the lucky heir to the fortune.

He was seeking turnips to the sheep on his employer's farm, up among the mist-clad hills of Scotland, said the man of law. When I found him I had traced his life from the old farm on which he was born step by step through the forty years of ill paid and often most unpleasant labor before I found him. It was not difficult for he had held but few positions in all those years. Everyone in the countryside knew him.

As to John McCluskey? I asked.

I am, said he without taking his eyes from the turnips and the knife. Your brother James is dead in New York, said I.

Aweel, aweel all men must die, he said, averting away.

He left you a good fortune, said I. I want you to come to the house with me so that I can establish your identity and arrange for you to enter into possession of the estate?

I'll talk to ye at six o'clock, young man, said he. I'll be busy then. The fortune will keep but the turnips will not.

Quite Correct

During the army maneuvers two of the officers of the Royal artillery were disputing about the classification of a tree. One said it was a birch tree and the other an oak tree. They could not agree so they called a gunner who was sitting near by and asked him if he could tell them what kind of tree it was.

The gunner looked up and down the tree, walked all round it, drew his sword, and began cutting it. The officers asked him what he meant by this behavior, when he looked up at them and answered:

"I am trying to discover what kind of tree it is."

Inspecting the gash he had made, with the air of a sage the gunner at length delivered his long expected verdict.

It's a wooden one, sirs.

They Take No Chances

The Chinese blacksmith thinks a great deal of his anatomy, when shoeing horses, which are not numerous in China. He is so skittish in doing a job of shoeing and so dubious about handling the hoofs of the animal that when shoeing is required the horse is strapped up with ropes in such a manner as to prevent kicking. No exceptions are made, even though the horse be a scrawny street plug of advanced age.

Famous Paragraph by a Cynic

Zapata, having received a response, began preaching simply of God. He taught people of the father of mankind, the rewarder, the punisher and pardoner. He separated truth from falsehood and religion from fanaticism. He taught any practiced virtue. He was gentle, kind hearted and modest, and was burned at the stake at Valladolid in the year of our Lord, 1915.—Voltaire.

DRIVING MOTOR VEIL

AUTO NECESSITY HAS BEEN MADE A THING OF BEAUTY.

Charm is All in the Manner in Which the Chiffon is Adjusted, and Femininity Has Made the Most of It.

The motor car is responsible for a lot of the most alluring little styles that ever were. All the clever little caps and bonnets are so becoming and so comfortable there is no telling where they will lead the feminine world to in the matter of headgear.

When a man gets himself up for motorizing he usually looks like a death's head at the wheel or a monster from some other planet. You look at him and think of dusty roads, flying gravel and fearsome speed. But the auto logs of women are delightfully suggestive of pleasant drives and jolly times.

It is the veil that makes possible this triumph for the gentler sex. And here is the very latest way of wearing it.

It looks like the Persian veil of wherever in the far Orient the idea came from. You see the goggles may be put on with it when necessary—and taken off very easily any time, which is a good thing, for no stretch of the imagination can make them things of beauty. Like a number of things in this world usefulness is their only reason for being here, hence they are dispensed with whenever possible.

This veil is just a two yard length of veiling chiffon hemmed at the ends and tacked or otherwise fastened to one of the many soft caps and bonnets that are provided for the motorist. If you choose to go to the extreme of the mode you can follow out the oriental suggestion in the veil and wear a turban of silk wrapped about your head.

NEEDS OF THE SMALL GIRL

Simplicity Combined With Comfort Should Be the Idea in Fashioning Attire for Children

Do not sacrifice utility and practical usefulness to fashion, and yet secure individuality and artistic grace which is a necessary attribute of children.

Simplicity combined with comfort should characterize the attire of little people. Children are no longer dressed in garments which prevent free movement of the limbs. Material and style are all important. The fabric should be soft and durable. Low price in materials for children's wear is in extravagance for a cheap stuff always looks what it is and does not wear well. Linens, pique, chambrays and ginghams are all good and they can be bought in tempting colors, well worth the having.

Brief Fashion Notes

Cubist designs are seen even in some of the new corset materials. The black and white combination in footwear continues to be liked. The crown dent is a smart feature of the new felt for country wear. Chambray yellow is one of the colors chosen among girls' topcoats.

Nothing equals white chinchilla for the fashionable sports coats. Gold and green is fast coming to be one of the favorite combinations.

All lace underwear is distinctly in the mode. Frequently such garments are made over net.

The newest collars on the fall coats are fastened up high at the neck to allow for cold weather.

Draped coats are liked for dress wear. Simple straight cut garments for general utility purposes.

Coat chains are being made of beads, steel intermingled with cut coral are favorites.

The most fashionable corset, similar to the uncorseted figure. Stiff or constricted lines are a thing of the past.

Beads Tone White Costumes

Inexpensive glass beads can be worn to give the tight tone of color to the all white costume. Opaque beads are sold in chime sufficiently long to go about the neck and drop in a V-line in front—a line which is artistic and much more becoming than the round neck line—for prices varying from 50 cents to $1.50. These beads come in various shades of green and are especially effective in jade color. They are also sold in yellow, red and blue.

Beware of being "as brown as a berry." It's dangerous, according to the American "fractionator," which warns against tan and sunburn. Says this medical authority: "There can be no doubt but that a continued exposure of the skin to the hot, fierce rays of the sun disturbs the control of the nerves as well as the vasomotor system, and all to what end? That the individual may become as brown as a berry; be in the fashion—a foolish as well as a dangerous fashion. The fact of going bareheaded in the sun cannot be regarded in any other light than that of great recklessness, if not of positive danger. Indeed, it has been asserted that the reckless driving of auto-cars and the number of deaths which result therefrom are in large part due to a brain disturbance caused by going bareheaded in the sun when touring."

PAIN KILLERS.

Pain is one of the most abused friends that man has. Having pain is like having a messenger that brings bad news. It's not a difficult matter to kill pain, but usually a foolish thing to do, at least until you've got the message that nature is trying to deliver. Doctors are, for the most part, called upon to relieve the symptoms and not to get to the bottom of the trouble and shut off the distress signals.

Doing what the patient desires rather than what he really needs, has made many a weak, easy-going man a popular physician. It's the same principle which is responsible for the enormous sales of many popular patent medicines.

The colic mixture has been one of the most popular killers. By deadening the pain of appendicitis, for example, the need of starving the patient and resting the intestinal tract has not been evident, and many a patient has died from rupture of the diseased organ as a direct consequence.

Soothing syrup, to choose another popular "remedy," frequently kills, either by poisoning the baby's frail body, or the mother's fool mind. Hushing the baby's pitiful cry for help with opium-containing soothing syrups, is too often equivalent to shooting an animal which has broken its leg. Killing an animal may be humane, under certain circumstances; killing a baby is murder. Ignorance upon the part of individuals who have had poor opportunities for instruction, constitutes a more or less valid defense.

The responsibility for causing a death by deliberate dosing of an infant with a soothing syrup, which the parent knows to be dangerous, is absolute. No attempt will be made to express the contempt earned by the individual who is "so tender hearted" that he or she "just can't bear to hear the child cry."

COLD BATHS.

This is the season to try out cold baths. If one becomes to and enjoys them now, it is almost certain that they will be continued all winter unless courage gives out on the first cold morning of the coming autumn.

There are undoubtedly people who do not thrive upon cold baths, but there are not nearly so many as there are who think they wouldn't if they were to try. The cold bath is a tonic to the individual who reacts promptly after a brisk rub with a dry towel. One should begin with a small dose of cold water on a warm but tired and sleepy body has been found, by many a man, to start him in the morning with his shoulders a little further back, and with a gleam in his eye which is most discouraging to Trouble and Annoyance. Disease or the bankruptcy court, has a mighty large job on hand to "get" the man who feels physically fit, and who has the gleam of fight in his eye.

When the weather first becomes cold, it takes a little struggle to plunge into a tub or stream of cold water. If one goes through it, however, he starts out the day with a consciousness of having won the first struggle. The fighter, whether he be a soldier, pugilist, or ordinary citizen, who has developed the habit of winning, is most likely to win. Cold water is not held to be a cure-all, but is, nevertheless, a remedy worth barrels of some medicines sold at $1.00 a bottle. "Use freely externally and internally."

"DAD."

You never saw a dad like mine. We two just have a jolly time; He's like a great big funny boy, And lots more fun than any toy.

He never scolds—my jolly dad; He winks his eye when I am bad, And then he says, "You're just a tad, Just a careless romping lad."

"All too soon you'll be a man; Go have all the fun you can. I was every bit as naughty, too, If it would be proper now, I'd go and do the same, I trow."

"And when I see the things you do I'd like to go and do them, too. I just can't scold you, little tad, Because I once was just as bad."

"And I expect you think I'm queer, But O, my lad, child days were dear, And I did not want to grow, I loved to be a laddie so."

"But since I've got to be a man, I'll live in you just all I can." And, somehow, I'm not half so bad When he's like that, my dear old dad, —Rachael Edwards in Cincinnati Tribune.

Thrifty Women
Marriage is a partnership in which husband and wife share responsibilities. The wife is as important as the husband, at least we wouldn't care to suggest to the well ordered housewife that she isn't, and the net income of man and wife in the well-regulated household usually belongs to both. The wife who has a fixed income for household purposes is in very much the same position as the woman who earns a weekly salary, and should manage to lay aside a fixed sum each week in the Savings Bank, and so help to make provision for the future need of herself and family. It frequently happens that a thrifty woman, unknown to other members of the household, will manage to save a dollar here and there where a man could not. Many a family has been carried over periods of misfortune by the foresight of the wife and mother.

"HANDS OFF" IS WILSON'S POLICY

Nonintervention and Neutrality Toward Mexico.

TO PROTECT ALL AMERICANS

President's Message Declares Fighting Factionists Are to Be Held to Strict Responsibility for Safety of Foreigners—Americans Urged to Leave.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 28.—President Wilson appeared in person before Congress and laid bare to the world the policy of this nation in its efforts to bring about peace in Mexico. The facts concerning Huerta's rejection of the peace proposals and the policy to be pursued by this government.

The message was distinctly specific in tone and contains little in the way of recommendation for future policy except the single one that this government must urge earnestly that all Americans should leave Mexico at once and that the United States should assist them to get out of Mexico in every way possible.

The president's counsel delays before further action is taken, and says:

"Impatience on our part would be childish and would be fraught with every risk of wrong and folly. The door is not closed against the resumption, either upon the initiative of Mexico or upon our own, of the effort to bring order out of the confusion by friendly co-operation and, should fortune occasion offer."

"So long as the misunderstanding continues we can only await the time of their awakening to a realization of the actual facts. We cannot thrust our good offices upon them. The situation must be given a little more time to work itself out in the new circumstances, and I believe that only a little while will be necessary. The circumstances are new. The rejection of our friendship makes them new and will inevitably bring its own alterations in the whole aspect of affairs. The actual situation of the authorities at Mexico City will present itself."

Powers Give U. S. Moral Support.

President Wilson's message is unexpectedly brief and closes with the statement that several of the great governments of the world have given the United States their generous moral support in urging on the provisional authorities at Mexico to bring order out of the confusion by friendly co-operation and, should fortune occasion offer."

The president relates the circumstances leading up to the Lind mission and all the facts in connection with it.

Text of President's Message.

"Gentlemen of the Congress: It is clearly my duty to lay before you fully and without reserve the facts concerning our present relations with the republic of Mexico. The deplorable posture of affairs in Mexico I need not describe, but I deem it my duty to speak very frankly of what this government has done and should seek to do in fulfillment of its obligation to Mexico, heretofore, and to Mexico hereafter, and to American citizens whose lives and vital interests are daily affected by the distressing condition which now obtain beyond our southern border."

U. S. a Friend of Mexico.

"These conditions touch us very nearly. Not merely because they lie at our very doors. First, of course, we are vitally and constantly conscious of them, and every instinct of neighborly interest and sympathy is aroused and quickened by them; but that is only one element in the determination of our duty. We are glad to call ourselves the friends of Mexico, and we shall, I hope, have many an occasion to prove it to the world as well as to these days of trouble and confusion, to show that our friendship is genuine and disinterested, capable of sacrifice and very generous manifestation. The peace, prosperity, and contentment of Mexico mean more, much more, to us than merely an enlarged field for our commerce and enlargement of our markets. We are conscious of the field of self-government and the realization of hopes and rights of a nation with whose best aspirations, too long oppressed, and disappointed, we deeply sympathize. We shall yet prove to the Mexican people that we know how to serve them without first thinking how we will serve ourselves."

World Wants Mexican Peace.

"But we are not the only friends of Mexico. The whole world desires her peace and progress, and the whole world is interested as never before. Mexico lies at last where all the world looks on. Central America is about to be touched by the great routes of the world's trade and intercourse running free from ocean to ocean at the Isthmus. The future has much in store for Mexico, as for all the states of Central America, but the best gifts can come to her only if she be ready and free to receive them and to enjoy them honorably. American, in particular—America, North and South, and upon both continents—waits upon the development of Mexico; and that development can be sound and lasting only if it be the product of a genuine freedom, a just and ordered government founded upon law. And so can it be peaceful and fruitful of the benefits of peace. Mexico has a great and enviable future before her, if only she choose and attain the paths of honest constitutional government.

No Peace Is in Sight.

"The present circumstances of the republic, I deeply regret to say, do not seem to promise even the foundations of such a peace. We have had many months of political confusion and anarchy, for the conditions there to improve, and they have not improved. They have grown worse, rather. The territory in some sort controlled by the provisional authorities at Mexico City has grown smaller, not larger. The prospect of the pacification of the country, even by arms, has receded to grow more and more remote, and its pacification by the authorities at the capital is evidently impossible by any other means than force. Difficulties more and more entangle those who claim to constitute the legitimate government of the republic. They have made good their claim in fact, but their successes in the field have proved only temporary. War and disorder, devastation and confusion, seem to threaten to become the settled fortune of the distracted country. As friends we could wait no longer for a solution which every week seems further away. It was our duty at least to volunteer our good offices—the offer to assist, if we might, in effecting some arrangement which would bring relief and peace and set up a uniformly acknowledged political authority there."

Tells of Instructions to Lind.

"Accordingly I took the liberty of sending John Lind, former United States ambassador to Mexico, as my personal spokesman and representative to the City of Mexico with the following instructions:

"Press very earnestly upon the attention of those who are now exercising authority or wielding influence in Mexico the following consideration and advice:

"The government of the United States does not feel at liberty any longer to stand inactive by while it becomes daily more and more evident that no real progress is being made towards the establishment of a government at Mexico, which the country will obey and respect."

"The government of the United States does not stand in the same case with the other great governments of the world in respect to what is happening or what is likely to happen in Mexico. We offer our good offices, not only because of our genuine desire to play the part of a friend, but also because we are expected by the powers of the world to act as Mexico's nearest friend."

Acts in Interest of Mexico.

"We wish to act in these circumstances in the spirit of the most earnest and disinterested friendship. It is our purpose in whatever we do propose in this perplexing and distressing situation not only to pay the most scrupulous regard to the sovereignty and independence of Mexico—that we take as a matter of course, to which we are bound by every obligation of right and honor—but also to give every possible evidence that we act in the interest of Mexico alone, and not in the interest of any person or body of persons who may have personal or property claims in Mexico which they may feel that they have the right to press. We are seeking to counsel Mexico for her own good and in the interest of her peace, and not for any other purpose whatever."

"The government of the United States would be itself discredited if it had any selfish or ulterior purpose in transactions where the peace, happiness and prosperity of a whole people are involved. It is acting as its friendship for Mexico, not as any selfish interest dictates."

All America Cries for Settlement.

"The political situation in Mexico is incompatible with the fulfillment of international obligations on the part of Mexico, with the civilized development of Mexico herself, and with the maintenance of normal political and economic conditions in Central America. It is no common occasion, therefore, that the United States offers her counsel and assistance. All America cries out for a settlement."

A satisfactory settlement seems to us to be conditioned on (a) An immediate cessation of fighting in Mexico, a definite armistice, solemnly entered into and scrupulously observed;

"(b)—Security given for an early and free election in which all will agree to take part."

Huerta Must Not Be Candidate.

"(c)—The consent of General Huerta to bind himself not to be a candidate for election as president of the republic at this election; and

"(d)—The agreement of all parties to abide by the results of the election and co-operation in the most loyal way in organizing and supporting the new administration."

"The government of the United States will be glad to play any part in this settlement or in its carrying out which is honorable and consistent with international right. It pledges itself to recognize and in any way proper to assist the administration already established in Mexico in the way and on the conditions suggested. Taking all the existing conditions into consideration the government of the United States can conceive of no reasons sufficient to justify those who are now attempting to shape the policy or exercising the authority of Mexico by dealing with the situation through offers. Can Mexico give the civilized world a satisfactory reason for rejecting our good offices?"

Lind Showed Great Tact.

Mr. Lind executed his delicate and difficult mission with singular tact, firmness, and made clear to the authorities of the city of Mexico, not only the intent of his visit, but also the spirit in which it had been undertaken. But the proposals he submitted were rejected, in a note, the full text of which I take the liberty of laying before you.

"I am led to believe that they were rejected partly because the authorities at Mexico City had been grossly misinformed, and partly because the points they did not realize the spirit of the American people in this matter, their earnest friendliness, and yet sober determination that some just solution be found for the Mexican difficulties; and they did not believe that the present administration spoke, through Mr. Lind, for the American people."

"Meanwhile, what is it our duty to do? Clearly, everything that we do must be rooted in patience and done with calm and disinterested deliberation. Impatience on our part would be childish and would be fraught with every risk of wrong and folly. It is imperative that they should not take any unnecessary risks if it is physically possible for them to leave the country. We should let everyone who assumes to exercise authority in any part of Mexico know in the most unequivocal way that we shall vigilantly watch the fortunes of each and every man who cannot get of those American who have come to Mexico to receive any assistance from this side of the border. I shall follow the best practice of nations in the matter of neutrality by forbidding the exportation of arms or munitions of war of any kind from the United States to any part of the republic of Mexico."

"I am happy to say that several of the great governments of the world have given this government their generous moral support in urging upon the provisional authorities at the city of Mexico the acceptances of our friendly good offices in the spirit in which they were made."

Gambro's Reply to Wilson.

Washington, Aug. 28.—The following is a synopsis of the reply of Senator Gambro to the proposals of the American government conveyed through Hon. John Lind, as announced to Congress by the president, in his reply to the American proposals. Senator Gambro, the Mexican minister of foreign affairs, urges the following points:

That President Wilson's imputation that no progress is being made toward the restoration of peace in Mexico is untrue.

That the fact the Mexican government enjoys the recognition of nearly all the great nations of the world is proof that it is a true and honorable administration.

That the proposal of an armistice is impossible, because the rebels do not propose an armistice with hands. To grant an armistice would be to recognize the belligerency of the rebels.

That the request that General Huerta should not be a candidate for the presidency is "strange and unwarranted."

That the election of General Huerta was legal.

That the American proposals are "humiliating and unbecoming."

That Mexico's ambassador should be received in Mexico and that the United States should send a new ambassador to Mexico.

WORK OF CYCLONE

Acts as Matchmaker and Reunites Lovers After Many Years of Misunderstanding.

By JOHN ALWAYNE.

"Why don't you and the Widow Wilson get hitched?" his cronies would ask of William Youakum at the village store. And Youakum, with a sudden flash of anger in his blue eyes, would answer:

"I don't go courting no women. When they want me, let 'em send for me."

All of which would find its way to the Widow Wilson's ears through the wiles of the various auditors of Youakum's ultimatum.

"Nevertheless it did seem strange that two old friends should live in such isolation upon neighboring ranches. True, the ranches were quarter sections, and at least half a mile lay between the two houses. But they were the nearest neighbors of one another, and they had known each other since childhood. Youakum was a man of fifty, and the widow might have been forty-five, though she did not look anywhere near it."

There were few residents of the little Kansas settlement who remembered the time when it had been a frontier outpost. But everybody knew that old man Farley and old man Youakum had migrated together and fought Indians together. The children had grown up together and everybody had expected them to get married. Then Wilson had come along and snatched Adeline Farley out of Youakum's hand—almost literally, for the bans had been announced when the startling news came from Kansas City that the pair were man and wife. Old Farley forgave his daughter and took her home when Wilson deserted his young bride; but Youakum never got over it. He went to California and was not heard of for five and twenty years. Then he drifted back to take up land in the town of his birth, to find all his old friends scattered or dead, and Adeline Wilson, a widow, farming her father's land.

Youakum had never married. Gossip averred that he and the widow would soon come together, even found a bunch of wild myrtle growing, and how I put it in your hair?"

"And then she told me you loved me," said Adeline.

"And I've loved you ever since," Adeline continued, taking her hand. Adeline Wilson made no resistance, but her eyes were still downcast.

"Why did you marry Wilson, dear?" asked the man.

For the first time she raised her eyes. "I guess because I was a fool. Will," she answered.

"And you couldn't manage to care for me just the least bit, could you, Adeline?" he asked.

The widow was tracing out the pattern upon the counterpane. "Why wouldn't you come to see me?" she asked suddenly.

"I guess for the same reason that you married Wilson," he answered. "I'm stubborn, as you are. But I'm sorry. And when I think that it was you who gave in and came to me, it just makes me feel cheap. Did they get you?"

"Robbers? What robbers?" asked Adeline, looking at him curiously.

"The men who struck me down. Slick fellows they might have been. There was I, sitting beside my plow in broad daylight when they got me and I never so much as saw or heard them."

"Where do you think you are, Will?" inquired the Widow Wilson.

"Why, at home, of course," he answered. "Where else should I be? But I see you've changed the furniture round, haven't you?"

The Widow Wilson was laughing and crying hysterically. Youakum looked at her in wonder.

"Don't you know that when our fathers built their homes they made them both the same and got the same kind of furniture?" she asked when she had recovered her self-possession.

"You mean that I'm in your house, Adeline?" he cried. "Who brought me here?"

"You brought yourself, my dear, yesterday morning. There weren't any robbers, Will, it was a cyclone. Picked you up from your plow and carried you nicely through the air and planked you down beside me on a bed of hay I'd pulled down for Bessie and her calf. If it hadn't plowed 'n' toppled over on your head—"

But the Widow Wilson did not have a chance to finish just then for William Youakum had caught her by the arms with surprising strength for a sick man to show; and you can't talk when you are being kissed, they say. (Copyright, 1915, by W. G. Chapman.)

UNMOVED BY GOOD FORTUNE

John McCluskey Evidently Possessed of All the Well-Known Calmness of the Scotch Nation.

It was said of John McCluskey when he visited the states that he was the calmest man in the world. Throughout his sixty years he had been a farm laborer in Scotland. Some months previously his brother James had died, and left a fortune of several hundred thousand dollars to the brother he had not seen since they bade each other good-by in the heathery forty years before.

A lawyer was appointed the administrator. It was his duty to find the hunky brother.

He was looking turnips for the sheep on his employer's farm, up among the mist-clad hills of Scotland, said the man of law, "when I found him. I had traced his life from the old farm on which he was born step by step through the forty years of his life, before I found him. It was not difficult for me to find him, but few positions in all those years. Everyone in the countryside knew him."

"Are you John McCluskey?" I asked.

"I am," said he, without taking his eyes from the turnips and the knife.

"Your brother James is dead in New York?"

"Aweel, aweel, all men must e'en die, he said, slicing away."

"He left you a good fortune," said I. "I want you to come to the house with me, so that I can establish your identity and arrange for you to enter into possession of the estate."

"It's a fine day at six o'clock, young man," said he. "I'll be busy till then. The fortune will keep, but the turnips will not."

Quite Correct.

During the army maneuvers two officers of the Royal artillery were disputing about the classification of a tree. One said it was a birch tree, and the other an oak tree. They could not agree, so they called a gunner who was sitting near by and asked him if he could tell them what kind of tree it was.

The gunner looked up and down the tree, walked all round it, drew his sword, and began cutting it. The officers asked him what he meant by this behavior, when he looked up at them and answered:

"I am trying to discover what kind of tree it is."

Inspecting the gash he had made, with the air of a sage the gunner at length delivered his long-expected verdict:

"It's a wooden one, sirs!"

They Take No Chances.

The Chinese blacksmith thinks a great deal of his anatomy, when shoeing horses, which are not numerous in China. He is so skilful in doing a job of shoeing and so skilful about handling the horse, that he has been known to shoe the animal, that, when shoeing is required, the horse is strapped up with ropes in such a manner as to prevent kicking. No exceptions are made, even though the horse be a scrawny street plug of advanced age.

DRAPEING MOTOR VEIL

AUTO NECESSITY HAS BEEN MADE A THING OF BEAUTY.

Charm is All in the Manner in Which the Chiffon is Adjusted, and Femininity Has Made the Most of It.

The motor car is responsible for a lot of the most alluring little styles that ever were. All the clever little caps and bonnets are so becoming and so comfortable there is no telling where they will lead the feminine world to in the matter of headgear.

When a man gets himself up for motoring he usually looks like a death-head at the wheel or a monster from some other planet. You look at him and think of dusty roads, flying gravel and fearsome speed. But the auto style of women are delightfully suggestive of pleasant drives and jolly times.

It is the veil that makes possible this triumph for the gentler sex. And here is the very latest way of wearing it:

It looks like the Persian veil or wherever in the far Orient the idea came from. You see, the goggles may be put on with it when necessary—and taken off very easily any time; which is a good thing, for no stretch of the imagination can make them things of beauty. Like a number of things in this world, usefulness is their only reason for being here; hence they are disposed with whenever possible.

This veil is just a two-yard length of veiling chiffon hemmed at the ends and tacked or otherwise fastened to one of the many soft caps and bonnets that are provided for the motorist. If you choose to go to the extreme of the mode you can follow out the oriental suggestion in the veil and wear a turban of silk wrapped about your head.

Property Rights and Persons.

President Wilson in World's Work.

What I am interested in is having the Government of the United States more concerned about human rights than about property rights. Property is an instrument of humanity; humanity isn't an instrument of property. And yet when you see some men riding their great industries as if they were driving a car of juggernaut, not looking to see what multitudes prostrate themselves before the car and lose their lives in the crushing effect of their industry, you wonder how long men are going to be permitted to think more of their machinery than they think of their men.

Did you never think of it?—men are cheap and machinery is dear; many a superintendent is dismissed for over-driving a delicate machine, who wouldn't be dismissed for over-driving an overtaxed man. You can discard your man and replace him; there are others ready to come to his place; but you can't without great cost, discard your machine and put a new one in its place. You are less apt, therefore, to look upon your men as the essential vital foundation part of your whole business. It is time that property, as compared with humanity, should take second place, not first place.

We must see to it that there is no overcrowding, that there is no bad sanitation, that there is no unnecessary spread of avoidable diseases, that the purity of food is safeguarded, that there is every precaution against accident, that women are not driven to impossible tasks, nor children permitted to spend their energy before it is fit to be spent. The hope and elasticity of the race must be preserved; men must be preserved according to their individual needs, and not according to the programs of industry merely. What is the use of having industry, if we perish in producing it? If we die in trying to feed ourselves, why should we eat? If we die in trying to get a foothold in the crowd, why not let the crowd trample us sooner and be done with it?

I tell you that there is beginning to beat in this nation a great pulse of irresistible sympathy which is going to transform the processes of government, amongst us. The strength of America is proportioned to the health, the energy, the hope, the elasticity, the buoyancy of the American people.

TEACHING SEX HYGIENE.

(Mantlewood News.)

Educators everywhere will watch with interest the result of the installation of a course in sex hygiene in the Chicago public schools. If parents object to the instruction of their children in this sort of knowledge, the children will be excused from the classes.

It is a rather peculiar fact that while the American people are quite willingly aiding in the fight against tuberculosis, infantile paralysis, diphtheria, and certain other contagious diseases they seem to dread to assist in battling against the spread of these other terrible diseases which maim and cripple and kill not only the persons affected, but will commit even more serious ravages upon generations to come. So-called "private diseases" are just as much a matter of public concern as any other contagious affliction.

As Miss Jane Addams says, the course of instruction offered in Chicago is projected not because children are ignorant or innocent, but "because they are full of corrupt and misleading knowledge."

A STATISTICAL TRIUMPH.

We heard a political speaker once make the statement "that anything could be proven by statistics" and we are beginning to think that he was right, for a man down in Madison has discovered that the expense of running the government of Wisconsin is not high, and gives the figures to prove it.

In fact he shows that the expense in this state per capita is lower than that in many of the other states, all proven by statistics.

There is something peculiar about statistics. When a man gets into an argument, no matter on what subject, if he can reel off a lot of figures to sustain his side of the question, the other fellow generally takes to the woods, no matter whether the figures are authentic.

The reason of this probably is that very few men are gifted with the faculty of retaining in their mind a whole list of figures, and the consequence is that a man of this kind is generally alone in a crowd, and has things all his own way.

However, it must have taken some delving to dig up the necessary figures to prove that the state administration is running things in an economical manner, and it is doubtful if the average taxpayer will swallow the information and put the same gang back into office for them to try it all over again.

Port Washington Star: There is not a shadow of evidence of a character that would be admitted in a court of reputable standing to give color to this charge of catering to Stalwart Republican support for Kavel in the 1912 campaign. The charge was made by the Milwaukee Journal to create discussion among Democrats. Without investigation, certain editors of so-called Democratic papers have repeated the charge and both the Journal and its echoes have reiterated the charge so often that perhaps they believe it to be true. This unwarranted charge has resulted in some Democrats being misled. That more Democrats have not jumped into the trap is due to the wisdom of those who helped organize the Democratic State Press association, and who knew the Journal for the unreliable sheet it is.

THE BRAIN OF A MAN.

In the actions of men, the expression of their emotions, there are contradictions and surprises absolutely without limit.

It seems unbelievable that a great general, able to conquer the world as was Napoleon, should be an inveterate liar and delight in falsifying events to make himself appear greater.

It is phenomenal that Rousseau, whose noble genius inspired the French revolution, who wrote the greatest of books on education of children, should have left his five children on the steps of a foundling asylum.

Once came along Sam Lewis, the great English money-lender, to amaze us still further.

Lewis is dead. While he lived he was considered—justly—one of nature's prize victuaries.

He was merciless in his extortions. He had his agents at Monte Carlo, leading to unfortunate young men there at criminal intentions. He lent to women and men, old and young, and always gouged them.

If ghosts really travel, many a suicide ghost will come to sit on Sam Lewis' grave.

Would you expect to find in the mind of such a man any real generosity or sentiment?

Read his will. It is a struggle between charity and sentiment—sentiment getting the better of it.

He married a young woman—a chorus girl. He wanted the satisfaction of pleasing her thoroughly and therefore left her 19 of his 20 millions. He asked her to give away in her own name five millions to various charities which he enumerated.

The complicated money shark was complicated to the end. He wanted to give to his wife and he wanted to give to charity at the same time.

Many of us are inclined to judge by first impressions. All of us practically judge absolutely by a few as certain facts. Yet, when the human mind is the subject of study, facts are at least unreliable as theories.

When a fire breaks out in a prison it is not unusual to find a murderer willing to risk his life to save that of another.

Thieves are perhaps more generous than any other class of citizens.

Those who rob the poor through trusts are liberal in helping lying-in hospitals and universities.

A woman is capable of loving a man so much that she will cruelly ill-treat his children because a former wife was their mother.

The theory of the Darwinians that we have looked up in us an animal ancestry might help perhaps to explain our queer mental contradictions.

There is not the slightest doubt that man's mind is an epitome of all the animal characteristics.

As we have said before, the dog's friendship, the horse's ambition, the pig's gluttony, the tiger's ferocity, the cunning of the fox may all be found typified in different men, and occasionally all in one man.

Our mental contradictions perhaps depend on that particular animal ancestor which takes control of us at certain periods.

The heart which each of us carries around is really nothing but a pump, a powerful muscle, which admirably does its work, irrigating the system, forcing the blood through the lungs where it takes up every few seconds fresh supplies of oxygen and life.

Formerly the work of the heart was not understood. People did not know that the blood circulated until Harvey came along in 1616 with his discovery.

The heart was felt beating in the breast. It seemed to be the one thing constantly alive. Poets and lovers concluded that it must be the seat of the emotions. As a matter of fact, it has no more to do with the emotions than the kidneys or liver.

When we receive in our brains an impression of grief or joy this is communicated through the nerves to the heart, quickening or retarding the circulation of the blood.

Therefore many of us still imagine the heart has something to do with our sentiments, and, therefore, we speak of the complicated human heart, instead of being accurate and speaking of the complicated human brain.—Hearst Papers.

SENECA.

Wm. Jackson and Joe Andrew have each erected a site during the past summer having been convinced that this is the proper method for those who wish to keep milk cows in prime condition during the winter months.

The lack of rain for some time past has caused things in this town to dry up pretty much during the past two weeks, also most of the crops were out of the way before the dry weather came.

Wm. Putzier has been marketing his crop of apples of late, he having between two and three hundred bushels this year. Mr. Putzier takes considerable pride in his apples and being pretty well versed in the methods of raising and taking care of the trees, has pretty good success with them. He has been receiving from eighty cents to a dollar a bushel for his crop.

The melon crop in this section is beginning to come into market, and a number in this vicinity have turned their attention to this branch of farming so that they are able to supply the demand. The melons this year seem to be of a prime quality and it is reported that the crop is pretty good, although a trifle later than usual.

It is well rounded and properly ditched. The foreman John Monagan is to be congratulated for having done an excellent job.

STATE FAIR.

Numerous individuals and private business institutions will lend valuable assistance to the Wisconsin state fair, Milwaukee, Sept. 8-12, by offering special premiums to encourage exhibits in certain lines. Many of these competitions are among the most meritorious at the fair and lend much to the success of the exhibition.

The Wisconsin Agriculturist offers a watch fob, gold, bronze or silver plated, to the Wisconsin farmer who stands highest in the number of winning points at the state fair. The Agriculturist also offers prizes for horses, sheep, swine, grains, cattle, poultry, dairy and the county exhibit, also in the woman's work and the education departments.

The woman's prize probably will be a medal and those for the county exhibits and education departments probably cups.

Liberal special prizes are offered for a large number of exhibits, particularly in the live stock and agricultural departments. The Percheron Society of America offers liberal cash premiums and numerous gold and silver medals for winners in twelve special classes of registered Percheron horses. The Wisconsin Horse Dealers' association offers special future prizes for pure bred Percherons and Clydesdales of each sex foaled in Wisconsin in 1912. Among other organizations which will donate special premiums for winners in breeds of stock in which they are particularly interested are the American Hereford Cattle Breeders' association, the American Aberdeen Angus association, the Wisconsin Holstein Friesian Breeders' association, the American Jersey Cattle club and the Brown Swiss Cattle Breeders' association. The board of agriculture unites in presenting all these special premiums. Mrs. Adda P. Howie, Elm Grove, first and only woman member of the board of agriculture, offers a cash prize for the best two-year-old Jersey heifer bred and owned by a Wisconsin farmer who has never before exhibited cattle at any state fair.

Peter Henderson & Co., of New York, offers cash prizes for exhibits of vegetables and flowers grown from Henderson seeds. The Curry Bros. Co., Milwaukee, also offers cash prizes for the best displays of cut flowers grown from Curry Bros. seeds.

Dollar Wheat and Spuds Predicted

"Dollar wheat, dollar corn and dollar potatoes"—this is the song sung by the Northwest Farmstead, the publication of the orange Judl company.

Her prices on dairy products are also expected, the paper declaring in this week's issue that wholesale price for fancy butter should be 40 cents, prime quality cheese, 20 cents, and fancy milk, 10 cents a quart.

America has the biggest and best wheat crop ever grown and other countries have nearly normal yields, the Farmstead says. But the world's production of spuds, oats, corn, rye, barley and buckwheat is 20 per cent short and the corn crop is the smallest ever known, hence the demand for wheat should be great enough to make the wheat price at Chicago $1.

The corn crop in the United States many not exceed 2,300,000 bushels, and the rest of the world will harvest less than usual, so the total crop may be 700,000,000 to 1,000,000,000 bushels short. Reduced yield of soy and orange crops should increase the demand, the Farmstead figures, and as corn is worth for feeding purposes as much as wheat, the price ought to be the same.

It's the early bird that escapes the city hunter's gun and the chickens are "wise" to it here.

The Vivaphone is an extraordinary device and is totally different in scheme and construction from other talking picture patents. The films are of a special make and the apparatus that talks faithfully reproduces the human voice and other sounds in perfect synchronization with the action of the pictures. The Vivaphone is the invention of Cecil M. Hepworth and has created a sensation in London and New York. Prices 25-35-50c, Children 15c.

Property Rights and Persons.

President Wilson in World's Work.

What I am interested in is having the Government of the United States more concerned about the rights of man than about property rights. Property is an instrument of humanity; humanity is not an instrument of property. And yet when you see some men riding their great industries as if they were driving a car of juggernaut, not looking to see what multitudes prostrate themselves before the car and into their lives in the crushing effect of their industry, you wonder how long men are going to be permitted to think more of their machinery than they think of their men.

Did you never think of it?—men are cheap and machinery is dear; many a superintendent is dismissed for over-driving a delicate machine for over-driving a delicate man. You can discard your man and replace him; there are others ready to come to his place; but you can't without great cost, discard your machine and put a new one in its place. You are less apt, therefore, to look upon your men as the essential vital foundation, part of your whole business. It is time that property, as compared with humanity, should take second place, not first place.

We must see to it that there is no overcrowding, that there is no bad sanitation, that there is no unnecessary spread of avoidable diseases, that the purity of food is safeguarded, that there is every precaution against accident, that women are not driven to impossible tasks, not children are permitted to spend their energy before it is fit to be used. The hope and elasticity of the race must be preserved; men must be preserved according to their individual needs, and not according to the programs of industry merely. What is the use of having industry, if we perish in producing it? If we perish in producing it, why should we want it? If we die trying to get a foothold in the crowd, why not let the crowd trample us sooner and be done with it?

I tell you that there is beginning to beat in this nation a great pulse of irresistible sympathy which is going to transform the processes of government amongst us. The strength of America is measured not only to the health, the energy, the hope, the elasticity, the buoyancy of the American people.

TEACHING SEX HYGIENE.

(Mantlesex News.)

Educators everywhere will watch with interest the result of the installation of a course in sex hygiene in the Chicago public schools. If parents object to the instruction of their children in this sort of knowledge, the children will be excused from the classes.

It is a rather peculiar fact that while the American people are quite willing to aid in the fight against tuberculosis, infantile paralysis, diphtheria, and certain other contagious diseases they seem to dread to assist in battling against the spread of these other terrible diseases which make and cripple and kill not only the persons affected, but which commit even more serious ravages upon generations to come. So-called "private diseases" are just as much a matter of public concern as any other contagious affliction.

As Miss Jane Addams says, the course of instruction offered in Chicago is prepared not because children are ignorant or innocent, but because they are full of corrupt and misleading knowledge.

A STATISTICAL TRIUMPH.

We heard a political speaker once make the statement "that anything could be proven by statistics" and we are beginning to think that he was right, for a man down in Madison has discovered that the expense of running the government of Wisconsin is not high, and gives the figures to prove it.

In fact he shows that the expense in this state per capita is lower than that in many of the other states, all proven by statistics.

There is something peculiar about statistics. When you get into an argument, no matter on what subject, if he can read off a lot of figures to sustain his side of the question, the other fellow generally takes to the woods, no matter whether the figures are authentic.

The reason of this probably is that very few men are gifted with the faculty of retaining in their mind a whole list of figures, and the consequence is that a man of this kind is generally alone in a crowd, and has things all his own way.

However, it must have taken some delving to dig up the necessary figures to prove that the state administration is running things in a economical manner, and it is doubtful if the average taxpayer will swallow the information and put the same gang back into office for them to try it all over again.

Port Washington Star: There is not a shadow of evidence of a character that would be a disgrace in a court of regular standing to give color to this charge of catering to Stalwart Republican support for Kael in the 1912 campaign. The charge was made by the Milwaukee Journal to create discussion among Democrats. Without investigation, certain editors of so-called Democratic papers have repeated the charge and both the Journal and its echoes have reiterated the charge so often that perhaps they believe it to be true. This unwarranted charge has resulted in some Democrats being misled. That more Democrats have not fallen into the trap is due to the wisdom of those who helped organize the Democratic State Press association and who knew the Journal for the unreliable sheet it is.

THE BRAIN OF A MAN.

In the actions of men, the expression of their emotions, there are contradictions and surprises absolutely without limit. It seems unbelievable that a great general, able to conquer the world, as was Napoleon, should be an inveterate liar, and delight in falsifying events to make himself appear greater.

It is phenomenal that Rousseau, whose noble genius inspired the French revolution, who wrote the greatest of books on education of children, should have left his five children on the steps of a foundling asylum.

Once came along Sam Lewis, the great English money-lender, to amuse us still further. Lewis is dead, but he lived he was considered—justly—one of nature's prize vultures.

He was merciless in his extortions. He had his agents at Monte Carlo leading to unfortunate young men there at criminal interests. He lent to women and men, old and young, and always gouged them.

If ghosts really travel, many a suicide ghost will come to sit on Sam Lewis' grave.

Would you expect to find in the mind of such a man any real generosity or sentiment?

Read his will. It is a struggle between charity and sentiment—sentiment getting the better of it.

He married a young woman—a chorus girl. He wanted the satisfaction of pleasing her thoroughly and therefore left her 15 of his 20 million. He asked her to give away in her own name five million to various charities which he enumerated.

The complicated money shark was complicated to the end. He wanted to give to his wife and he wanted to give to charity at the same time.

Many of us are inclined to judge by first impressions. All of us practically judge absolutely by a few ascertained facts. Yet, when the human mind is the subject of study, facts are at least unreliable as theories.

When a fire breaks out in a prison it is not unusual to find a murderer willing to risk his life to save that of another.

Thieves are perhaps more generous than any other class of citizens. Those who rob the poor through trusts are liberal in helping lying-in hospitals and universities.

A woman is capable of loving a man so much that she will cruelly ill-treat his children because a former wife was their mother.

The theory of the Darwinians is that we have looked up in us an animal and ancestry might help perhaps to explain our queer mental contradictions. There is not the slightest doubt that man's mind in an epitome of all the animal characteristics.

As we have said before, the dog's friendship, the horse's ambition, the pig's gluttony, the eagle's ferocity, the cunning of the fox may all be found typified in different men, and occasionally all in one man.

Our mental contradictions perhaps depend on that particular animal ancestor which takes control of us at certain periods.

The heart which each of us carries around is really nothing but a pump, a powerful muscle, which admirably does its work, irrigating the system, forcing the blood through the lungs where it takes up every few seconds fresh supplies of oxygen and life.

Formerly the work of the heart was not understood. People did not know that the blood circulated until Harvey came along in 1616 with his discovery. The heart was felt beating in the breast. It seemed to be the one thing constantly alive. Poets and lovers concluded that it must be the seat of the emotions. As a matter of fact, it has no more to do with the emotions than the kidneys or liver. When we receive in our brains an impression of grief or joy this is communicated through the nerves to the heart, quickening its pulsations, increasing the flow of the blood.

Therefore many of us still imagine the heart has something to do with our sentiments, and, therefore, we speak of the complicated human heart, instead of being accurate and speaking of the complicated human brain.—Hearst Papers.

SENECA.

Wm. Jackson and Joe Andrew have each erected a silo during the past summer having become convinced that this is the proper method for those who wish to keep milk cows in prime condition during the winter months.

The last year for some time past has caused things in this town to dry up pretty much during the past two weeks, although most of the crops were out of the way before the dry weather came.

Wm. Futzler has been marketing his crop of apples of late, he having between two and three hundred bushels this year. Mr. Futzler takes considerable pride in his apples and being pretty well versed in the methods of raising and taking care of the trees, has been receiving from eighty cents to a dollar a bushel for his crop.

The melon crop in this section is beginning to come into market, and a number in this vicinity have turned their attention to this branch of farming so that they are able to supply the demand. The Heinz pickle Co. are anticipating that the cucumbers will average 125 bushels to the acre. In anticipating this yield they have ordered their tank crew back here to erect three more large tanks at this station. This will complete the battery of tanks so the building can be erected over them.

A. P. Bean, the enterprising Guernsey breeder, took nine head of his Guernseys to the Marshfield fair Monday eve. Last year he pulled down several premiums and was a few dollars ahead notwithstanding that the premiums are remarkably low. Here is hoping he wins better money.

Adrian Bottoneck, the six year old son of Wm. Bottoneck living near Seneca Corners, was kicked by a colt last Thursday noon. Dr. Whitcomb was called to attend to his injuries.

Geo. T. Rowland of Grand Rapids, was the guest of his daughter, Mrs. P. E. Murgatroyd a few days last week.

Beware of being "as brown as a berry!" It's dangerous, according to the American "Practitioner," which warns against tan and sunburn. Says this medical authority: "There can be no doubt but that a continued exposure of the skin to the hot, fiery rays of the sun disturbs the control of the nerves as well as the vaso-motor system, and all to what end? That the individual may become as brown as a berry; be in the fashion—a foolish as well as a dangerous fashion. The fad of going bareheaded in the sun cannot be regarded in any other light than that of great recklessness, if not of positive danger. Indeed, it has been asserted that the reckless driving of auto-cars and the number of deaths which result therefrom are in large part due to a brain disturbance caused by going bareheaded in the sun when touring."

The Vivaphone singing and talking pictures will be presented at the Daly Theatre, Thursday, Sept. 4. This is the invention that has caused such a furore in New York and has held the attention of the theatregoing public in London for the past year. Motion photography has advanced by leaps and bounds and at last pictures are talking, just the same as the living subjects do in life. Cecil M. Hepworth, the inventor of the Vivaphone, experimented for years before he perfected this remarkable apparatus, and when he introduced his extraordinary invention, the English public were amazed, and in one night that which had been said to be an impossibility became a reality and the talk of the town. The Scala Theatre in London was built for the express purpose of exhibiting the Vivaphone and that playhouse has become the most popular in the British Metropolis. Recently the Vivaphone singing and talking pictures were brought to New York where the success attained in England was duplicated.

Deer Meets Peculiar Death.—A wild deer met death in a peculiar manner on the farm of Albert Burt, in the town of Linwood, last Friday. A lane through the owner drives his stock is formed by wire fences on either side, with a barb wire at the top. Some time during the night the deer successfully jumped over one fence into the lane, but in an endeavor to scale the other, the animal's hind feet became entangled in the meshes near the bottom of the fence, while the upper part of its body fell on the barb, cutting it so badly that it bled to death. Deputy Game Warden Jay Kelsey was called to investigate the affair, finding the facts as here stated. He secured the head, and after having it mounted will send it to Madison.—Stevens Point Gazette.

Again in Trouble:—"From the frying pan into the fire" is the predicament Ed. Patt, Frank and Nick Rekes are in. Last week they were arrested by Game Warden Cole of Vesper and Foster of Wausau and arraigned before Justice Larner at Wausau, where they pleaded guilty to the charge of killing deer in Marathon county during the closed season and paid fines aggregating $36.

Monday they were again arrested, this time by Game Warden Cole and Lanning of Black River Falls, charged with killing deer in Wood county. A preliminary hearing was held before Judge Wagoner in the afternoon and the case adjourned until next Tuesday. The defendants have secured legal advice and will fight the charge, which is a serious one and should they be found guilty, will entail heavy fines and costs as there is no open season for deer in Wood county.—Marshfield Herald.

Attacked by Angry Bull.—John Lubbin, of Vedum, had an experience last Saturday morning that he is not exceedingly anxious to have repeated again right soon. During the forenoon a neighbor's bull had got out and wandering about the road had entered the barn yard of Mr. Lubbin. As he did not care to have the animal about he started to drive it away and after one or two turns about the yard in which the visitor made manifest that he was there to stay and not to be driven out, it turned on Mr. Lubbin suddenly throwing him backward and off his feet. The animal charged him, and while he was harmless, yet did some very effective work with his head by butting. Before he had attacked him with his feet however, Mrs. Lubbin had managed to attract the animal's attention in some way and Mr. Lubbin was allowed to get to safety.

Mr. Anderson, the owner, was notified and came and took the monster home. Mr. Lubbin suffered no real damage from the encounter except a few well defined bruises and a good scare.—Pittsville Record.

Stark's Potato Farm at Hobson.—Hobson is a station on the Soo line in Oneida county, eleven miles from Rhineland. One year ago it was a waste of cut-over land, without a house and with no cultivation, the first work being done on the 26th day of July, 1912. Shortly before this latter date the L. Starks Co. bought 11,000 acres of land, nearly all of which is level and the soil is of good clay loam, rich fertile for potatoes or oats or clover. The Starks people have erected 26 buildings, including comfortable dwellings for their married employees, warehouses, blacksmith shops, etc., besides a store, eating house and bunk house. A great potato warehouse is now being built. It is of solid stone, 60x200 feet, with a capacity for 60,000 bushels of potatoes, which is about the amount they expect to raise on the 400 acre tract of land planted last spring.

Up to the present time a total of $115,000 has been invested in this undertaking by the "Potato King" and his associates. Besides raising potatoes they also plan on buying $25,000 worth of feeding cattle next spring and fatten them for the market. It is expected that one season's feeding on the clover sowing to waste will put 200 to 300 pounds of flesh on the skinniest animal that can be bought in St. Paul or Chicago.—Stevens Point Gazette.

"DAD."

You never saw a dad like mine. We two just have a jolly time. It's like a great big funny boy. And lots more fun than any toy.

He never scolds—my jolly dad; He winks his eye when I am sad. And then he says, "You're just a tad, just a careless romping lad."

"All too soon you'll be a man; Go have all the fun you can. I was every bit as naughty, too, If it would be proper now, I'd go and do the same, I trow."

"And when I see the things you do I'd like to go and do them, too. I just can't scold you, little tad, Because I once was just as bad."

"And I expect you think I'm queer. But O, my lad, child days were dear. And I did not want to grow. I loved to be a laddie so."

"But since I've got to be a man, I'll live in you just all I can." And, somehow, I'm not half so bad When he's like that, my dear old dad.

The Cowboy's band of Cheyenne, Wyoming, also will add attraction to the Washington Park grounds for that day. As a further Driving Club Milwaukee will stage four harness events, free for all place, class pace, free for all first class, 1 trot.

In order that there may be no misunderstanding with the public, Secretary J. C. MacKenzie, announces that the State Fair proper will close on Friday night at 10 o'clock, at which time all exhibits will be released. Saturday is to be regarded merely as a special attraction day.

NEWS ITEMS FROM NEARBY PLACES

Deer Meets Peculiar Death.—A wild deer met death in a peculiar manner on the farm of Albert Bortz, in the town of Linwood, last Friday. A late fall through the owner's stock is formed by wire fences on either side, with a barb wire at the top. Some time during the night the deer successfully jumped over one fence into the lane, but in an endeavor to scale the other, the animal's hind feet became entangled in the mesh near the bottom of the fence, with the result that its body fell on the barb, cutting it so badly that it bled to death. Deputy Game Warden Jay Kelsey was called to investigate the affair, finding the facts as here stated. He secured the head, and after having it mounted will send it to Madison.—Stevens Point Gazette.

Again in Trouble.—From the frying pan into the fire is the predicament Ed. Patt, Frank and Nick Eckes are in. Last week they were arrested by Game Wardens Cole of Vesper and Foster of Wausau and arraigned before Justice Lerner at Wausau, where they pleaded guilty to the charge of killing deer in Marathon county during the closed season and paid fines aggregating $36.

Monday they were again arrested, this time by Game Wardens Cole and Lanning of Black River Falls, charged with killing deer in Wood county. A preliminary hearing was held before Judge Wegener on Tuesday night, the case adjourned until Tuesday. The defendants have secured legal advice and will fight the charge, which is a serious one and should they be found guilty, will entail heavy fines and costs as there is no open season for deer in Wood county.—Marshfield Herald.

Attacked by Angry Bull.—John Lubbin, of Veedum, had an experience last Saturday morning that he is not exceedingly anxious to have repeated again right soon. During the forenoon a neighbor's bull had got out and wandering about the road had entered the barn yard of Mr. Lubbin. As he did not care to have the animal about he started to drive it away and after one or two turns about the yard in which the visitor made manifest that he was there to stay and not to be driven out, it turned on Mr. Lubbin suddenly throwing him backward and off his feet. The animal charged him, and while he was hornless, yet did some very effective work with his head by butting. As a result he had attacked him with his feet however, Mr. Lubbin had managed to attract the animal's attention in some way and Mr. Lubbin was allowed to get to safety. Mr. Anderson, the owner, was notified and came and took the monster home. Mr. Lubbin suffered no real damage from the encounter except a few well defined bruises and a good scare.—Pittsville Record.

Stark's Potato Farm at Hobson.—Hobson is a station on the Soo line in Oneida county, eleven miles from Rhinelander. One year ago it was a waste of cut-over land, without a house and with no cultivation, the first work being done on the 28th day of July, 1912. Shortly before the late date the L. Stark Co. bought 11,000 acres of land, nearly all of which is level and the soil is of good clay loam, rich fertile for potatoes or oats or clover. The Stark's people have erected 28 buildings, including comfortable dwellings for their married employees, warehouses, blacksmithshops, etc., besides a store, eating house and bunk house. A great potato warehouse is now being built. It is of solid stone, 60x200 feet, with a capacity for 60,000 bushels of potatoes, which is about the amount they expect to raise on the 400 acre tract of land planted last spring.

Up to the present time a total of $115,000 has been invested in this undertaking by the "Potato King" and his associates. Besides raising potatoes they also plan on buying $25,000 worth of feeding cattle next spring and fatten them for the market. It is expected that one season's feeding on the clover sowing going to waste will put 200 to 300 pounds of flesh on the skinniest animal that can be bought in St. Paul or Chicago.—Stevens Point Gazette.

"DAD."

You never saw a dad like mine. We two just have the jolly time. He's like a great big funny boy. And lots more fun than any toy.

He never scolds—my jolly dad. He winks his eye when I am bad. And then he says, "You're just a tad. Just a careless romping lad."

"All too soon you'll be a man; Go have all the fun you can. I was every bit as naughty, too. If it would be proper now, I'd go and do the same, I trow."

"And when I see the things you do I'd like to go and do them, too. I just can't scold you, little tad. Because I once was just as bad."

"And I expect you think I'm queer, And I, my lad, child days were dear. And I did not want to grow, I loved to be a liddle so."

"But since I've got to be a man, I'll live in you just all I can." And, somehow, I'm not half so bad When he's like that, my dear old dad. —Renaet Edwards in Cincinnati Tribune.

UNIVERSITY NOTES.

Pain is one of the most abused friends that man has. Having pain is like having a messenger that brings bad news. It's not a difficult matter to kill pain, but usually a foolish thing to do, at least until you've got the message that nature is trying to deliver. Doctors are for the most part, called upon to relieve the symptom and not to get to the bottom of the trouble and shut off the distress signals.

Doing what the patient desires rather than what he really needs, has made many a weak, easy-going man a popular physician. It's the same principle which is responsible for the enormous sales of many popular patent medicines.

The colic mixture has been one of the most popular killers. By deadening the pain of appendicitis, for example, the need of starving the patient and resting the intestinal tract has not been evident, and many a patient has died from rupture of the diseased organ as a direct consequence.

Soothing syrup, to choose another popular "REMEDY", frequently kills, either by poisoning the baby's frail body, or the mother's fool mind. Hushing the baby's pitiful cry for help with opium-containing soothing syrups, is too often equivalent to shooting an animal which has broken its leg. Killing an animal may be humane, under certain circumstances; killing a baby is murder. Ignorance about the part of individuals who have had poor opportunities for instruction, constitutes a more or less valid defense.

The responsibility for causing a death by deliberate dosing of an infant with a soothing syrup, which the parent knows to be dangerous, is absolute. No attempt will be made to express the contempt, earned by the individual who is "so tender hearted" that he or she "just can't bear to hear the child cry."

COLD BATHS.

This is the season to try out cold baths. If one becomes cold and enjoys them now, it is almost certain that they will be continued all winter unless courage gives out on the first cold morning of the coming autumn.

There are undoubtedly people who do not thrive upon cold baths, but there are not nearly so many as there are who think they wouldn't if they were to try. The cold bath is a tonic to the body, a brisk rub with a dry towel. One should begin with a small dose of cold and increase it as his feelings of the morning before indicate, and as his courage and enjoyment grow. Cold water on the skin keeps colds out of the head and chest.

We Americans are facing a real danger of becoming a nation of pampered luxury loving molly-coddles. The cold bath is one of the means of keeping some of the good, red blood of our ancestors in circulation. A dash of cold water on a warm but tired and sleepy body has been found, by many a man, to start him out in the morning with his shoulders a little further back, and with a gleam in his eye which is most discouraging to Trouble (and Anxiety). Please note the bankruptcy court has a mighty large job on hand to "get" the man who feels physically fit, and who has the gleam of fight in his eye.

When the weather first becomes cold, it takes a little struggle to plunge into a tub or stream of cold water. It once goes through it, however, he starts out the day with a consciousness of having won the first struggle. The fighter, whether he be a soldier, pugilist, or ordinary citizen, who has developed the habit of winning, is most likely to win. Cold water is not held to be a cure-all, but is, nevertheless, a remedy worth barrels of some medicines sold at $1.00 a bottle. "Use freely externally and internally."

A Pleasant Party.

Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Ellis and Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Wright entertained a party of about a hundred at the pavilion on Wednesday evening of last week. The pavilion was prettily decorated with cut flowers and presented a most handsome appearance. Music was furnished by the Saecker orchestra and those present had a very pleasant time.

Huntington & Lessig received another carload of Ford automobiles on Saturday, the car containing six. Among the lot was the new car for Sheriff Cowell, who is now doing his traveling by auto.

Dad Boosters Says:

"The hand that rocks the cradle rules the world," but Mme. Booster says the hand that cradles the rocks and looks after the kitchen fire can boss her around.

Everyone admits that hindsight is better than foresight and it takes a lot of both kinds to keep the world moving. The man of the house who works 20 hours a day and the woman who works 20 hours, and the same, are both needed.

What about your building plans for this season? It's not too late to finish up a bungalow this fall.

Thrifty Women

Marriage is a partnership in which husband and wife share responsibilities. The wife is as important as the husband, at least we wouldn't care to suggest to the well ordered housewife that she isn't, and the net income of man and wife in the well-regulated household usually belongs to both. The wife who has a fixed income for household purposes is in very much the same position as the woman who earns a weekly salary, and should manage to lay aside a fixed sum each week in the Savings Bank, and so help to make provision for the future needs of herself and family. It frequently happens that a thrifty woman, unknown to other members of the household, will manage to save a dollar here and there where a man could not. Many a family has been carried over periods of misfortune by the foresight of the wife and mother.

SYNOPSIS.

Mrs. Varney, wife of a Confederate general, has lost one son and another is being from wounds. She reluctantly gives her consent for Wilfred, the youngest, to join the army if his father consents. The colonel is taking their last assault in an effort to capture Richmond. Edith Varney, daughter of the general, is a commission for Capt. Thorne, who is just recovering from wounds. As chief of the hospital at Richmond, Capt. Thorne tells Edith he has been ordered away. She declares to resist and go on with him of the commission from the president. He is already delighted and declares he cannot accept. Thorne decides to escape while Edith leaves the room to get the commission, but is arrested by the arrival of Caroline Mifflord, Wilfred's sweetheart. Mr. Arrelstorf of the Confederate secret service, a reported sister of Edith's, detects James, Mrs. Varney's son, entering a note from a prisoner in a lady's prison. Arrelstorf suspects it is intended for Thorne. The note reads: "Attack tonight at the telegraph office." Arrelstorf declares Thorne is "Damon of the Federal Secret Service," and that his brother Henry is a prisoner in Libby. Thorne refuses to believe and suggests that Thorne be confronted with the prisoner as a test. Thorne and Wilfred conferred on a letter to the general asking permission for Wilfred to join the army.

CHAPTER VII.—Continued.

Wilfred regarded her dubiously. He felt as an author does when he sees his pet periods marked out by the other pencil of the ruthless editor. "You might leave that out," he began, cutting valiantly at his most cherished and adored phrase. "No," protested Caroline vehemently. "I'm not going to let that go. That is the best thing in the whole story." "That 'dam' is going to cost us seven dollars, you know." "It is worth it," said Caroline. "It is the best thing you have written. Your father is a general in the army. He'll understand that kind of language. What's next? I know there's something more." "Tom Kitzridge has gone. He was killed yesterday at Cold Harbor." "Leave out that about," she caught her breath, and her eyes fixed themselves once more on that little round hole in the breast of his jacket—"about his being killed." "But he was killed and so was John's Sheldon—I have his uniform, you know." "I know he was, but you don't have to tell your father," said Caroline, choking up. "You don't have to telegraph him the news, do you?" "No, of course not, but—" "That's all there is to the letter except the end." "Why, that leaves it just the same except the part about—" "Yes," said Caroline in despair, "and after all the work we have done." "Let's try it again," said Wilfred. "No," said Caroline, "there is no use. Everything else has got to stay." "Well, then, we can't telegraph it. It would cost hundreds of dollars." "Yes, we can telegraph it," said stood in the doorway with the ease of a veteran soldier, that is without the painful effort to be precise or formal which marks the young aspirant for military honors.

"Wilfred," said Mrs. Varney, quickly approaching him, "there is a letter from your father." She extended the paper. "He sent it by his orderly."

Wilfred stepped closer to the elder woman while Caroline slowly rose from her chair, her eyes fixed on Mrs. Varney.

"What does he say, mother?" asked Wilfred.

"He says—" answered his mother with measured quietness, and controlling herself with the greatest difficulty, "he tells me that you are—"

"In spite of her tremendous effort, her voice failed her. "Read it yourself, my boy," she whispered pitifully.

The letter was evidently exceeding brief. A moment put Wilfred in possession of its contents. His mother stood with head averted. Caroline, started with trembling lips, a pale face, and a heaving bosom. It was to the order that Wilfred addressed himself.

"I am to go back with you."

"General's orders, sir," answered the soldier, saluting. "To enter the service. God knows we need everybody now."

"When do we start?" asked Wilfred eagerly, his face flushing as he realized that his tender desire was now to be gratified.

"As soon as you are ready, sir," he answered.

"I am ready now," said Wilfred. He turned to his mother. "You won't mind, mother," he said, his own lips trembling a little for the first time at the sight of her grief.

Mrs. Varney shook her head. She stepped nearer to him, smoothed the hair back from his forehead, and stretched out her arms to him as if she faintly would embrace him, but she controlled herself and handed him the cap and belt.

"Your brother," she said slowly, "seems to be a little better. He wants you to take his cap and belt. I told him your father had sent for you, and I knew you would wish to go to the front at once."

Wilfred took the belt from her trembling hands, and buckled it about him. His mother handed him the cap. "Howard says he can get another belt when he wants it, and you are to have his blankets too. I will go and get them."

She turned and left the room. She was nearly at the end of her resisting power, and that for the welcome incident to her departure, she could not have controlled herself longer. "The last one," one taken, one trembling, and now Wilfred!

"The boy entered into note of the emotions of his mother. He clapped the rap on his head and threw it back.

"Get me just as it is, if it were made for me," he said, settling the cap firmly in place. "Or else, I will be with you in a jiffy."

Caroline stood still near the table, her eyes on the floor.

"We won't have to send it now, will we?" she pointed to the letter.

Caroline, with a long, deep sigh, shook her head, and slowly handed the letter to him. Wilfred took it unhesitatingly, his eyes fixed on the girl, who had suddenly given very white of face, trembled at lip, and tears of eyes-lashes.

"You are very good," he said, tearing the letter into pieces. "To help me like you did."

"It was nothing," whispered the girl. "You can help me again, if you want to."

Caroline lifted her eyes to his face, and he saw within their depths that which encouraged him.

"I can fight twice as well, if I—"

Poor little Caroline couldn't trust herself to speak. She nodded through her tears.

"Goodbye," said Wilfred, "you will write me about helping me to fight twice as well, won't you. You know what I mean?"

Caroline nodded again.

"I wouldn't mind if you telegraphed me that you would."

What might have happened further will never be determined, for at that moment Mrs. Varney came back with an old faded blanket tied in a roll. She handed it to the boy without speaking. Wilfred threw it over his shoulder, and kissed his mother hurriedly.

"You won't mind much, will you, mother. I will soon be back. Orderly," he cried.

"Sir."

"I am ready," said Wilfred.

He threw one long, meaning look at Caroline, and followed the soldier out of the door and across the hall. The opening and closing of an outside door was heard, and then all was still. Mrs. Varney held her hand to her heart, and long, shuddering breaths came from her. He might soon be back, but how. She knew all about the famous injunction of the Spartan women. "With your shield or on it," but somehow she had no idea of the full significance until it came to her last boy, and for a moment she was forgetful of poor, little Caroline until she saw the girl wavering toward the door, and there was no dispute about the real tears in her eyes now.

"Are you going, dear?" asked Mrs. Varney, forcing her head as before.

"Oh, yes," continued the older woman, "your party, you have to be there."

At that the girl found voice, and without looking back she murmured: "There won't be any party tonight."

CHAPTER VIII.

Edith is forced to play the game.

Edith's departure was again interrupted by the inopportune entrance from the back hall of Mr. Arrelstorf, who was accompanied by two soldiers, whom he directed to remain by the door. As he advanced rapidly toward Mrs. Varney, Caroline stepped aside toward the rear window.

"Is he—" began Arrelstorf, turning toward the window, and starting back in surprise as he observed Caroline for the first time.

"Yes, he is there," answered the woman.

"Oh, Mrs. Varney," cried Caroline, "there's a heap of soldiers out in your back yard here. You don't reckon anything's the matter, do you?"

"The girl did not lower her voice, and was greatly surprised at the immediate order for silence which proceeded from Mr. Arrelstorf, whose presence she acknowledged with a very cool, indifferent bow.

"No, there is nothing the matter, dear," said Mrs. Varney. "Marcha," she said to the old servant who had come in response to her ring; "I want you to go home with Miss Mifflord. You must not go alone, dear. Good night."

"Thank you very much, Mrs. Varney," answered Caroline. "Come Martha. As she turned, she hesitated. "You don't reckon she could go with me somewhere else, do you?"

"Why, where else do you want to go at this hour, my dear girl?" asked Mrs. Varney.

"Just to—to the telegraph office," answered Caroline.

Mr. Arrelstorf, who had been waiting with ill-concealed impatience during this dialogue, started violently. "Now!" exclaimed Mrs. Varney in great surprise, not noticing the actions of her latest guest. "At this time of night?"

"Yes," answered Caroline. "It is an very important business, and—I—"

"Oh," returned Mrs. Varney, "if that is the case, Martha must go with you."

"You know we haven't a single servant left at our house," Caroline said in explanation of her request.

"I know," said Mrs. Varney, "and, Martha, don't leave her for an instant."

"No," answered Martha. "All take care, ob huh."

As soon as she had left the room, passing between the two soldiers, Arrelstorf took up the conversation. He spoke quickly and in a sharp voice. He was evidently greatly excited.

"What is she going to do at the telegraph office?" he asked.

"I have no idea," answered the woman.

"Has she had any conversation with him?" said Arrelstorf, pointing to the front of the house.

"They were talking together in this room early this evening before you came the first time, but it isn't possible she could."

"Anything is possible," snapped Arrelstorf impatiently. He was evidently determined to suspect everybody, and leave no stone unturned to prevent the failure of his plans. "Corporal," he cried, "have Edinger follow that girl. He must get in the telegraph office as soon as she does, and don't let any dispatch she tries to send go out before he sees it. Let her give it in, but hold it. Make no mistake about that. Get an order from the department for you to bring it to me." As the corporal saluted and turned away to give the order, Arrelstorf faced Mrs. Varney again. "Are they both out there?"

"Yes," answered the woman. "Did you bring the man from Libby prison?"

"I did," the guards have him out in the street on the other side of the house. When we got Thorne in here alone I'll have him brought over to that window and shoved into the room."

"And where shall I stay?"

"Our there," said Arrelstorf, "by the lower door, opening upon the back hall. You can get a good view of everything from there."

"But if he sees me?"

"He won't see you if it is dark in the hall." He turned to the corporal who had reentered and resumed his station. "Turn out those lights out there," he said. "We can close these curtains, can't we?"

"Certainly," said Mrs. Varney, opening the rear door and drawing the heavy portieres, but leaving space between them so that anyone in the dark hall could see through them but not be seen from the room.

"I don't want too much light in here, either," said Arrelstorf. As he spoke he blew out the candles in the two candelabra which had been placed on the different tables, and left the large, long room but dimly illuminated by the candles in the sconces on the walls.

Mrs. Varney watched him with fascinated awe. In spite of herself there still lingered a hope that Arrelstorf might be mistaken. Thorne had enlisted her interest, and he might under other conditions have aroused her maternal affections, and she was hoping against hope that he might yet prove himself innocent, not only because of his personality but as well because she thought that she might have entertained a very real regard for her, and because of the honor of the Demont family, which was one of the oldest and most important ones in the western hills of the Old Dominion.

Arrelstorf meantime completed his preparations by moving the couch which Caroline Mifflord had placed before the window back to the wall.

"What is she going to do at the telegraph office?" he asked.

"I have no idea," answered the woman.

"Has she had any conversation with him?" said Arrelstorf, pointing to the front of the house.

"They were talking together in this room early this evening before you came the first time, but it isn't possible she could."

Beautiful Nerve.

Yeast—According to a Berlin nerve specialist, knitting in bed is an excellent antidote for tired nerves.

Crimsonbeak—Well, I should say that the fellow who spent any time knitting in bed would have a beautiful nerve.

"Tell me, what did you suppose was the object of all your exertions? What did you think when you saw the land disappear behind you and you found yourself out on the drifting ice-bergs?"

"Think?" said Panikpak, astonished. "I did not need to think. Peary did that!"

Eating becomes the great thing with the Eskimos. I once excused myself when paying a visit, with the plea that I had already eaten and had had enough. I was laughed at, and the answer I received was:

"There, don't talk like a dog! Dogs can be stuffed till they are satisfied and can eat no more; but people—people can always eat!"—Knut Rasmussen, in The People of the Polar North.

Then He Weakened.

"Do you happen to know Jinxley?"

"Yes, got acquainted with him on a Lake Superior steamer last summer."

"Atheist, isn't he?"

"I thought he was till I saw how he acted when we were running full speed in a fog, and Thunder Cape loomed up dead ahead."

HAVE NO NEED OF THOUGHT

All That Troubles Eskimo Is That They Shall Be Sure of Getting Enough to Eat.

Where the physical struggle for life is at its keenest, as it is among the Eskimos, the years glide by free from the more subtle cares and worries of the civilized man. The Eskimo does not count the days and keeps no record of time. All his thoughts are centered on hunting.

Once I asked an Eskimo who seemed to be plunged in reflection, "What are you thinking about?"

He laughed at my question, and said, "Oh, it is only you white men who go in so much for thinking! Up here we only think of our flesh-pots, and whether we have enough for the long dark of the winter. If we have meat enough, then there is no need to think. I have meat and to spare!"

I saw that I had insulted him by crediting him with thought.

On another occasion I asked an unusually intelligent Eskimo, Panikpak, who had taken part in Peary's last North Polar expedition:

made them know.—From Charles Kingsley's Address on Human Soul.

A New Face.

Mrs. Platt and her little son Tommy frequently went to St. John's church and the little boy had become familiar with the minister's face. One Sunday morning another minister was filling the pulpit. Tommy seemed rather puzzled. Finally he leaned over to his mother and in a very audible whisper said: "Mother, what's become of St. John?"

W HAT has become of the White House brides? There have been twelve of them. Miss Jessie Woodrow Wilson will be No. 13. But she feels no superfluous about it, on that score, 13 being the luckiest of numbers in the Wilson family.

It is interesting to consider the fact that three of the round dozen of White House brides, including the first one, Lucy Payne, and the last one, Alice Roosevelt, married congressmen. Also that two, Della Lewis and Nellie Grant, became the wives of foreigners. Only one president, Mr. Cleveland, was married in the White House, although another, Mr. Tyler, took to himself a spouse during his term of office.

In earlier days White House weddings were always celebrated in the circular room, the state department oval in shape, which is now called the blue room. But of late years Washington society has expanded to such an extent, numerically speaking, that with perhaps 1,000 guests to be invited, the east room is now too large for the staging of so important a spectacle as a marriage in the White House.

At the wedding of Alice Roosevelt, which occurred Feb. 17, 1906, the east room was almost uncomfortably crowded.

The bride and groom were wed on a raised platform before an extemporized altar. The ceremony was performed by the Rt. Rev. Henry V. Sittler, bishop of Washington, and breakfast for sixty persons was served in the state dining room, a buffet lunch for the other guests being furnished in the green room.

Nick Longworth, at that time a member of congress from Cincinnati, is exceedingly popular. He can do amusing things with the piano. He is a first-class baseball player and has other accomplishments. At the date of his marriage he was nearly forty. Though not rich, he will eventually inherit a considerable fortune from his mother. His wife has spent most of her time since her marriage in Washington, where she is a leader of the young married women's set. She has no children.

There was a gap of nearly twenty years between the Roosevelt wedding and that of Frances Cleveland, who was married in the White House June 2, 1886, to President Cleveland. She was only twenty years old at the time and was the daughter of Mr. Cleveland's former law partner.

On this occasion the ceremony was semi-private and the blue room was plenty big enough for the bride party and a small number of invited guests.

When her husband died, five years ago, Mrs. Cleveland was left very well off. In addition, the congress voted her the customary $5,000 a year as the pension of a president's widow. A few months ago she was married to Thomas J. Preston.

When Rutherford B. Hayes was colonel of the Third Ohio Volunteers the lieutenant-colonel of the regiment was Russell Hastings. Whence it came about that Colonel Hastings, in later years, made the acquaintance of Emily Platt, a niece of President Hayes. Miss Platt was a member of the White House family through the Hayes administration, being regarded almost as a daughter.

When she became engaged to Colonel Hastings it was arranged that she should be married in the White House, and the ceremony was performed there on June 19, 1878, at 7 o'clock in the evening. It was wholly a family affair.

Four years earlier took place the wedding of Nellie Grant, the third daughter of a president to be married in the White House. On this occasion the spectacle was staged in the east room, then used for the purpose for the first time. The date was May 21, 1874, and the bridegroom was Algeron Charles Frederick Sartoris, an Englishman.

Ellen Wrenshall Grant was a handsome girl of eighteen, with brown hair and eyes, rosy cheeks and a plump figure. Sartoris, who was the son of a member of parliament and was said to have an income of $50,000 a year, met her for the first time on a steamer coming back from Europe. The wooing was rapid, but General Grant disapproved of the match and did not give his consent for more than a year.

There are plenty of people living today who harbor. The commander invited the major aboard the flagship and entertained him royally.

The idea struck the worthy major the next day that he was in honor bound to return the compliment, but he was staggered by the expense involved.

To give a banquet befitting his dignity as a United States officer entertaining distinguished representatives of a foreign nation would mean bankruptcy, as the government had not authorized him to draw on its treasury will remember the popular excitement caused by this international marriage. It was estimated that the wedding presents represented a value of more than $100,000.

Certainly no marriage ever started out with a fairer outlook. But unfortunately the prospect was not realized. Sartoris, who was an idler, like many Englishmen of his class, did not make a satisfactory husband, and Mrs. Sartoris was eventually compelled to divorce him. Her son, named Algernon after his father, recently married a French girl, Cecile Moulford, and is now residing in France. Two daughters are married.

A little over a year ago—Mr. Sartoris having meanwhile died—Mrs. Sartoris took a second husband, Frank Hatch Jones, being married to him on July 4, 1912, at Oshawa, Canada.

On the evening of Jan. 31, 1842, Elizabeth Tyler, third daughter of President Tyler, then a girl of eighteen, was married in the blue room of the White House to William Waller, a member of congress from Williamsburg, Va.

It is not possible in all instances to trace the subsequent history of the White House brides, some of whom, indeed, such as those of the Jackson administration, were persons of no prominence apart from the fact that they were married in the White House.

Soon after this marriage Mrs. Tyler died, and within a short time the widowed president took to himself a second wife, whose name was Julia Gardiner. She was a New York girl.

Returning from abroad with her father, Miss Gardiner visited Washington and met President Tyler.

Soon afterward President Tyler became engaged to Miss Gardiner, and they were married in New York, the bride party returning immediately to the White House, where the wedding reception was held.

Mr. Tyler was fifty-six and his bride only twenty. John Quincy Adams, then in congress and a bitter enemy of the president, spoke of the marriage as a "union of January and May."

Young Mrs. Tyler did the honors of the White House for eight months, until the close of the administration. Then she and her husband went to their Virginia home, where they lived seventeen years. When Mr. Tyler died his widow took her children to her mother's home at Carleton Hill, St. Louis Island, and there spent the rest of her life.

When Van Buren was president Dolly Madison was still the leader of Washington society, and it was she who introduced to him the beautiful Angelica Singleton, daughter of a distinguished South Carolina family. Miss Singleton became a frequent guest at the White House, and the president's son, Major Abram Van Buren, fell in love with her. He married her in November, 1823, at her home in South Carolina, but the wedding reception was held at the White House, where young Mrs. Van Buren immediately took charge of affairs as mistress of the establishment, the president being a widower.

Andrew Jackson was remarkably devoid of relatives. Perhaps it was on this account and because he was fond of young people that he made so much of his wife's relations. Two of the latter were married in the White House at his request during his administration. A third young woman who enjoyed the same distinction was Della Lewis of Nashville, the daughter of an intimate friend of the president.

The second marriage at the White House during the Jackson regime was that of Mary Easton, another Tennessee girl, who was a niece of Mrs. Jackson. In this instance the bridegroom was Lucien B. Polk, likewise of Tennessee. The pair went to live at Columbia, Tenn., where they spent the rest of their lives very happily.

Elizabeth Martin was a relative of Mrs. Jackson's. She was married in the White House to a young clerk, Lewis Randolph, a son of Martha Jefferson Randolph, who was the eldest daughter of Thomas Jefferson.

This takes us back as far as the administration of John Quincy Adams, who had three sons. The handsomest of the three brothers was John Adams, a graduate of Harvard, notoriously hot tempered and inheriting the arrogance of his grandfather, after whom he was named.

At that time a young man named Hellen, from Philadelphia, was employed in the White House in a secretarial capacity. He had a very pretty sister named Mary, and John Adams fell in love with her, finally obtaining the consent of his parents to their marriage, notwithstanding some opposition to start with.

The ceremony was performed in the circular room, and there was dancing afterward, the president and his wife taking part in the Virginia reel.

John was said of the Monroes that they made fewer friends in Washington than any presidential family before or since. They were very exclusive and so formal that Mr. Monroe once refused to see a near relative who called at the White House because the visitor was not attired in the small clothes appropriate to full dress. Mrs. Hay, the eldest daughter, would not visit the wives of the diplomats because they did not call first upon her. Thus it came about that when the youngest daughter, Maria Heister Monroe, married her cousin, Samuel Lawrence Gouverneur, then secretary to the president, nobody was at the wedding except members of the families of the bride and bridegroom. It took place in the circular room at noon on March 9, 1820, and the clergyman, the Rev. Dr. Hawley of St. John's church, wore knee breeches with silver buckles on his low shoes.

The couple spent their summers at Oak Hill, Loudoun county, Va. They lived in New York in winter. Ex-President Monroe died in the New York house while on a visit to his daughter. They had three children, two of them boys.

Maria Monroe Gouverneur died at Oak Hill at the age of forty-nine and was buried there.

Anna Todd of Philadelphia was married at the White House in 1812 to John G. Jackson, a member of congress from Virginia and a grandnephew of Stonewall Jackson.

History is unfortunately silent in regard to subsequent events in the life of Anna Todd, but it is known that she went to Virginia with her husband and lived there the rest of her life. Her sister, Mrs. Madison, had two sisters. One of them, Anna, became the wife of Congressman Cutts of Maine. The other and younger sister, Lucy, was married at fifteen years of age to George Steptoe Washington, a nephew of the Father of His Country. He died and she went to live with the Madisons.

All of which merely leads up to the fact that on the evening of March 11, 1811, Lucy, the widow aforementioned, was married at the White House to a Kentucky widower named Todd, who was an associate justice of the Supreme court. This was the first White House wedding and was celebrated with all the eclat possible in those comparatively simple days.

It will be noticed that only four of the twelve White House brides have been daughters of presidents. The first of these was Maria Monroe, the second Elizabeth Tyler, the third Nellie Grant and the fourth Alice Roosevelt. Jessie Woodrow Wilson will be the fifth.

HARD TO REALIZE.

"We quickly accept conditions as they are. It's hard to realize that a bald-headed man ever had hair."

"That's true."

"Yes, some of them not only had hair, but long, curly curls."

A DILEMMA.

"I suppose Mrs. Smith is much distressed about her husband's death."

"I don't know about that. He was so mean and cranky that in one way, it is a relief. But then, black is so horribly unbecoming to her."

THE BOSS SPEAKS.

"Young man," said the boss, "I like to see you arrive in the morning looking fresh."

"Yes, sir."

"But let it end there. You have a habit of keeping your freshness up all day."

NOTHING SERIOUS.

"Was I full when you saw me last night?"

"I wouldn't like to say that."

"Come on. What was I doing?"

"Well, you were challenging a lamp-post to race."

Seine, near Villeneuve, a queer looking globe of zinc. With a large knife he opened it, and found 300 letters, still legible, and all dated December, 1870. They were delivered to the postal authorities, and after this long wait in the river went in their way.—The Sunday Magazine.

Sociable Shave.

Hubbub—Don't you miss a barber out in the country?

Subbubs—Oh, no; I talk to myself if the time I am shaving.

PATNETIC PLEA FOR CHILDREN

Words of Charles Kingsley Worth Heeding by Every Man and Woman of Any Worth.

Do not deceive yourselves about the little dirty, offensive children in the street. If they be offensive to you, they are not to him that made them. Take heed that ye despise not one of these little ones; for I say unto you that in heaven their angels do always behold the face of my Father which is in heaven." Is there not in every one of them, as in you, the light that lighteth every man that cometh into the world? And know you not who that light is, and what he said of little children? Then take heed, I say, lest you despise one of these little ones. Listen not to the Pharisees when they say: Except the little child be converted, and become as I am, he shall in nowise enter into the kingdom of heaven. But listen to the voice of him who knew what is in man, when he said: "Except ye be converted, ye shall not enter into the kingdom of heaven." Their souls are like their bodies, not perfect, but beautiful enough and fresh enough to shame anyone who shall dare to look down upon them. Their souls are like their bodies, hidden by the rags, foul with the dirt of what we miscall civilization. But take them to the pure stream, strip off the ugly, shapeliness be rid, the young limbs are rather rubbed. Finally be leaped over to his mother and in a very audible whisper said: "Mother, what's become of St. John?"

A New Face.

Mrs. Platt and her little son Tommy frequently went to St. John's church and the little boy had become familiar with the minister's face. One Sunday morning another minister was filling the pulpit. Tommy seemed rather puzzled. Finally he leaned over to his mother and in a very audible whisper said: "Mother, what's become of St. John?"

MISSIVES LONG IN TRANSIT

Correspondence Sent From Paris During Siege Took Years to Reach the Consignees.

What would Americans say if they received mail matter that had been delayed in transit for a lifetime? In France, a few years ago, letters for 100 persons were delivered to as many of the addressees as were living—that had been mailed years before. They were delivered, moreover, at the earliest possible moment; although the distance between the sender and the receiver was in many cases only a few miles.

During the siege of Paris by the Germans in 1870 the postoffice administration lay upon the debris, in addition to the balloons, of inclosing letters in small zinc globes, water tight and hermetically sealed, and dropping them into the Seine. There they floated, if they were not captured by the Germans, down the river to the French ships, where a net stretched across the river gathered them in, and they were sent on their way.

Unfortunately for the French, the Germans discovered the character of these zinc floats, and as they could not hope to see and fish out by ordinary means all the letters that went down thus, they stretched across the river at Villeneuve Saint Georges, a net of their own and effectually stopped this system of postal communication.

The zinc balls and their use were pretty nearly forgotten when, some years ago, a fisherman found in the

RECAPITULATES A CRIME.
Senator Cummins has discovered that "selling short" is a crime. He says that it is the greatest vice of today and that many investors are wrecked and fortunes and moral fibre are broken down.

We doubt if it is the greatest vice of today, but it is probably one of the most great vices that the man of today indulges in. The fact that very few of us are speculating on the stock exchange may be one of the reasons why it is not the greatest vice.

Men have been ranting about this speculating business for a number of years past. The preachers take a whirl at it occasionally, once in a while a governor takes a shot at them, and then some law-maker comes out and denounces the whole system. The speculators themselves do not pay much attention to the rantings, but keep right on speculating, although occasionally one of them breaks into print and explains that it is all necessary and that the country could not get along if it were not for the board of trade.

This may be all so, but it looks very much like gambling to a man on the fence. It looks as if they might simply be betting on a certain commodity going up or down, as the case might be, with so intention of ever having the goods delivered, which is the case in ninety-nine cases out of a hundred. If the commodities were bought outright and full price paid for them it might be possible for the speculators to fool us, but so long as they trade on margins it will be a hard matter to make the public believe that it is any better than betting on a horse race or a prize fight.

ADVICE TO COUNTRY GIRLS.
The Young Women's Christian Association sends out the following good advice to farmers' daughters:

"Girls should never ask the way of any one but officials on duty such as policemen, railway officials or postmen."

"Girls should never say to help a woman who apparently faints at their feet, but should immediately call a policeman to her aid."

"Girls should never go to an address given them by a stranger."

"Girls should never go with a stranger, even if the stranger is dressed as a hospital nurse, or believe stories of their relatives having suffered accident or having been taken ill suddenly, as this is a common device to kidnap girls."

"Girls should never accept candy, food, a glass of water or small favors offered to them by strangers. Neither should they buy sweets or food or candy at their doors. Any of these things may contain drugs."

"Girls should never take situations without first making inquiries through a society active of affiliated in travelers' aid work."

"Girls should never go to any large town even for one night without knowing a safe lodging."

Plans are under way to have the above words of caution posted in every railway and street car station in the United States, that our girls may be warned of the dangers awaiting them while traveling.

SENATOR DISCOVERS A CRIME.

Senator Cummins has discovered that "selling short" is a crime. He says that it is the greatest vice of today and that many investors are wrecked and fortunes and moral fibre are broken down.

We doubt if it is the greatest vice of today, but it is probably one of the many great vices that the man of today indulges in. The fact that very few of us are speculating on the stock exchange may be one of the reasons why it is not the greatest vice.

There have been ranting about this speculating business for a number of years past. The preachers take a whiff at it occasionally, once in a while a governor takes a shot at them, and then some law-maker comes out and denounces the whole system. The speculators themselves do not pay much attention to the ranting, but keep right on speculating, although occasionally one of them breaks into print and explains that it is all necessary and that the country could not get along if it were not for the board of trade.

This may be all so, but it looks very much like gambling to a man on the fence. It looks as if they might simply be betting on a certain commodity going up or down, as the case might be, with the intention of ever having the goods delivered, which is the case in ninety-nine cases out of a hundred. If the commodities were bought outright and full price paid for them it might be possible for the speculators to fool us, but so long as they trade on margins it will be a hard matter to make the public believe that it is any better than betting on a horse race or a prize fight.

ADVICE TO COUNTRY GIRLS.

The Young Women's Christian Association sends out the following good advice to farmers' daughters:

"Girls should never ask the way of any one but officials on duty such as policemen, railway officials or postmen."

"Girls should never stay to help a woman who apparently faints at their feet, but should immediately call a policeman to her aid."

"Girls should never go to an address given them by a stranger."

"Girls should never go with a stranger, even if the stranger is dressed as a hospital nurse, or believe stories of their relatives having suffered accident or having been taken ill suddenly, as this is a common device to kidnap girls."

"Girls should never accept candy, food, a glass of water or small favors offered to them by strangers. Neither should they buy sweets or food or candy at their doors. Any of these things may contain drugs."

"Girls should never take situations without first making inquiries through a society active or affiliated in traveling and work."

"Girls should never go to any large town even for one night without knowing a safe lodging."

Plans are under way to have the above words of caution posted in every railway and street car station in the United States, so that our girls may be warned of the dangers awaiting them while traveling.
